HEAR TESTIMONY IN PLANE CRASH PROBE

Flier Who Piloted Plane In Recent Fatal Crash Tells Of Mishap

Jury Verdict Finds That Accident Was Unavoidable

That the engine of the plane which crashed to the earth in the cornfield of N. C. Patton, adjacent to the New Castle fair grounds, and caused the death of Kenneth E. Smith, prominent contractor, and the serious injury of Clarence Martin, had developed a "miss" and that as he was attempting to return to the land field a gust of wind which caused the machine to go sidewise, which he was unable to right, because the engine stalled, was the statement of William Castle of Youngstown, O., pilot of the machine, at the coroner's inquest held Tuesday night at the office of Alderman L. C. Mantz.

Unable to control the airplane without the aid of his engine, the machine went into what is termed a "side slip", then into a spiral, nose down, making perhaps one complete turn, then landed on the ground. The airplane did not strike the ground head on or nose down as most people who saw it, thought, he also stated.

On hearing this and other testimony concerning the crash, the jury returned a verdict that "We find that Kenneth E. Smith came to his death September 29, 1927, as a result of injuries sustained when the plane of L. R. Hendricks and William Castle of Youngstown, O., crashed to the earth in the cornfield of N. C. Patton, Hickory township, Lawrence county,

Veteran P. & L. E. Railroad Official Dies In Pittsburgh

Death Calls Colonel Schoonmaker, Chairman Of P. & L. E. Board Of Directors

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—Funeral arrangements were being completed today for the burial of Col. J. M. Schoonmaker, 85, chairman of Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad board of directors, Civil war veteran, and well known coal operator, who died at a hospital here last night after an operation for appendicitis October 8.

Col. Schoonmaker was one of the founders and first vice presidents of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad. This railroad was organized shortly after he returned to Pittsburgh after being mustered out of the army in 1865, where he ranked as colonel in command of the first brigade, Averill's division, army of the Shenandoah, under General Phil Sheridan.

Although Col. Schoonmaker interested himself in coal, banking and other businesses he devoted most of his life to the P. & L. E. railroad.

Col. Schoonmaker is survived by his widow, two sons and one daughter.

Coolidges Plan Pittsburgh Trip

President Will Deliver Address At Carnegie Tech Ceremony Thursday

WILL BE JOINED BY SEVERAL OTHERS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—On his first venture away from the capital since returning from three months in the Black Hills, President Coolidge is scheduled to leave here tonight for Pittsburgh, where tomorrow, he will speak at the annual observance of Founder's Day at Carnegie Institute.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will accompany the executive and Mrs. Coolidge, and Secretary of Labor Davis, another prominent Pennsylvanian, and Mrs. Davis will join the party at Pittsburgh. Others who will make the trip include Secretary to the President Everett Sanders, and military and naval aides. Col. Blanton Winship and Captain Wilson Brown, and the White House physician, Major James F. Coupal.

Mr. Coolidge has a full day in prospect tomorrow. Arriving early, he and his party will breakfast at East Liberty at the home of Secretary Mellon. Then follows a motor tour of Pittsburgh, lunch at the Mellon home, the keynote speech at Carnegie Institute and dinner with the board of trustees of the institute.

Tonight's trip probably will be the last the president makes away from Washington before his scheduled visit to Florida and Cuba in January.

Delivers Lecture On Lincoln To County Teachers

Last evening Dr. O. T. Corson gave a most interesting lecture on "Lincoln's Reverence" at the evening session of the Lawrence County Teachers' Institute being held at the Shenango Consolidated school at East New Castle.

Dr. Corson vividly presented how Lincoln in his humility was the most reverent of men. He said that Lincoln's reverence for the truth was shown when as a lawyer he would never lie for a client and if anything about a case was not straight he would not accept such a case.

On Thursday evening Ex-Governor Brumbaugh will give a popular lecture on "Why the School" to which all the public as well as the teachers of the institute are invited. The entertainment is without charge. The Bessemer high school orchestra will furnish the music.

This evening the free entertainment is being conducted by the Victor Talking Machine company.

BELIEVE GIRL FLIER IS STILL IN AIR ON ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Ruth Elder's Plane Believed To Be Roaring Its Way Over Ocean

Plane Has Likely Entered Storm Area About 1,000 Miles Off Coast

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Roaring through the clouds in a new attempt to bridge 3,600 miles of ocean by air, the monoplane "American Girl", carrying Miss Ruth Elder and Captain George Haldeman on a flight to Paris, is believed today to have entered the low pressure area of storms and fogs, 1,000 miles east of Newfoundland. This ocean hop is the longest sustained flight across the water ever attempted.

The plane, unreported since it was sighted at 10:35 o'clock last night by the liner American Banker of the American Merchant Marine, should have reached the half-way mark across the ocean at 11 a. m. if the fliers have thus far successfully eluded the nemesis which has claimed the lives of so many transatlantic aviators.

The area of low pressure constitutes the most difficult part of the voyage, in the opinion of meterological experts. There are sudden winds which whip the ocean into a fury, dense blankets of fog and continual squals of rain and snow.

If the "American Girl" passes safely through this area it is believed the fliers' chances of success are excellent.

Vessels on Lookout

Through this area and beyond are the lanes of the transatlantic steamers, and 25 steamers are strung out at intervals of a few hundred miles all the way across.

It is regarded as unlikely that the plane will be sighted while it is battling the elements in the storm area. Miss Elder and Haldeman probably would choose to fly at the highest altitude possible in order to evade the elemental disturbances or else the plane would be excluded from the view of vessels beneath them by the low-lying clouds and fog-shrouded skies.

The "American Girl" hopped off from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, just after five o'clock yesterday afternoon. If all goes well the fliers hope to reach their goal in 38 to 40 hours. Thirty-eight hours of flying would place them in Paris at noon, Paris time, tomorrow, or at seven a. m., New York time. The present rate

Five Injured In Mine Explosion

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 12.—Five persons, including four officials of the Susquehanna collieries company were injured at the Short Mountain colliery of the company, at Lykens, today, in a gas explosion.

The injuried men were John Betz, head surveyor; James McCormick, inside foreman; Isaac Cole, assistant foreman; Inaaz Coleni miner, and Eugene Flynn, motor operator.

Betz was reported as most seriously hurt, being run over by a mine car in addition to suffering burns.

The mine had been idle since Sunday, when fire broke out in the workings.

Five Killed In Arkansas Storm

TWENTY HOUSES PARTLY WRECKED

(International News Service)

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 12.—Five dead and 18 injured was the toll of life taken early today by a severe storm which whipped through the village of Dell, eight miles from here.

Early reports of ten to 30 dead were based on estimates by Cobb Brothers, undertakers, who were busy most of the night bringing the dead and injured over rain-soaked roads to the local hospital. Very little damage was done in Blytheville.

The known dead are:

Justice of the Peace J. P. Williams and wife.

E. M. Hardin and wife.

An unidentified boy, aged about 12, who died in the hospital.

The storm struck this section of Arkansas shortly after midnight, but seemed to center its fury on the little village of Dell. About 20 houses were either wrecked or partly damaged by the storm. Fire broke out but this was checked by the heavy rainfall.

DEATH RECORD

John Stephen Donnelly, 39, 915 Croton avenue.

Miss Isabel Susanna Kelso, 48, Pulaski township.

WILL LAY CORNERSTONE OF NEW JUNIOR HIGH THURSDAY AFTERNOON

At the meeting of the New Castle school board, held Tuesday evening in the North Street Junior High school, it was decided to lay the cornerstone of the new Euclid Avenue Junior High school on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 13, at four o'clock.

The reason for the setting of the date with so little preparation is the fact that Ex-Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh, now president of Juniata College of Huntingdon, Pa., and Dr. Henry Klonower, director of the teachers' bureau for the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction, are in the city and have accepted the invitation to lay the stone.

Prominent Speakers

Because of their prominence in the educational world, and because they are available for Thursday, the board decided to hold the cornerstone laying exercises on Thursday, and while the time is short, the arrangements will be rushed to completion today. President James K. Love appointed Mrs. J. C. B. Douthett, Dr. W. L. Campbell and J. C. Ligo as a committee of three to assist Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools, in the preparation of a program.

The North Street Junior High, Martin Gantz, West Side and Highland schools will have all students present at the cornerstone laying, as the new school will serve these buildings. Other schools will no doubt be present, but the students of the schools named will be marched to the site of the new building. The Senior High school band will play and for the New Castle school board Mrs. Rose M. Nothdurft, vice president, will speak, in the absence of President James K. Love, who has been called out of the city.

Because of the short time elapsing before the cornerstone laying, the program may not be as comprehensive as it might have been, but the board believes that this lack will be compensated by the two outstanding speakers who have been secured.

Dr. C. C. Green, city superintendent of schools, announced this afternoon that in the event of inclement weather at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the cornerstone laying exercises will be conducted in the auditorium of the Senior High school, with Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh delivering the address.

Three Million Fire Loss At Jersey Resort

Ocean City, N. J., Suffers Worst Fire In History Of Fashionable Resort

BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL TODAY

Two Hotels, 40 Stores And Several Business Houses Ruined In Blaze

(International News Service)

OCEAN CITY, N. J., Oct. 12.—A $3,000,000 fire which swept the boardwalk of this resort last night, destroying two hotels, 40 stores and other buildings, was brought under control early today. The fire was the most disastrous blaze in the city's history. Police believe it was started when a lighted match or cigarette was carelessly thrown into a pile of rubbish alongside the boardwalk.

Firemen from 20 surrounding municipalities—some of them coming from as far as Atlantic City and Cape May—succeeded in checking the flames after a hard battle. A square

CONVENTION RECORDS ARE FAR EXCEEDED IN LOCAL GATHERING

President P. L. Craig and State Officers Are Overwhelmed at Success of Convention. Over 3,500 Hear Addresses and Program at Morning Session—Venerable London Preacher Delivers Sermon—Great Tributes Paid to President Craig and Local President Robert Strickler.

For the third time in 37 years an annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association convened in New Castle, when at 9:30 o'clock this morning the 65th such convention of the association got under way in the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

The two previous conventions, one in 1890 and one in 1911, attracted many, it is true, but for color, size and magnitude they could in no way be compared to the present one. At nine o'clock there were some 600 delegates in the auditorium, at 9:30, when the gavel fell, there were 1,400 in the auditorium, and through the various entrances to the spacious building were streaming hundreds of others.

Lincoln avenue was a maze of automobiles filing up to the Cathedral and depositing delegates, the surrounding streets were clogged with parked automobiles, and the registration tables were turning out accredited delegates as fast as the 50 registrars could get them through.

At 11:20 this morning when Dr. F. B. Meyer of London started his convention sermon the Cathedral auditorium was crowded to capacity. The seats, the loges, the boxes were filled, the stage was filled and the aisleways in the back of the auditorium and the two balconies saw scores standing. Even the entryways leading into the balcony seats were filled.

Will Set Record

Every indication points to the 1927 convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association overshadowing all previous efforts. The building, the arrangements and the remarkable efficiency of the men and women in charge has amazed the officers of the association, and they are voicing their enthusiastic approval in no uncertain tones.

And well this convention might lead all previous ones, for this one is peculiarly Lawrence county's. New Castle is the home of the state president, Percy L. Craig, and the unprecedented outpouring of delegates from this county, the spontaniety shown by the workers, and the precision with which the mechanics of the convention functioned this morning are a tribute to Mr. Craig.

Despite an October downpour all morning, the enthusiasm of the hundreds present was not dampened and the convention could not have gotten off to a more auspicious start had the weather been made to order.

Song Service Opens

A rousing song service opened the convention. The choir on the stage numbered approximately 75, and with John W. Owens directing, the delegates and choir swung into "All Hail the Power", a happy selection for the WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—An inquiry, following reports that Senators-Elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, would be seated by the new Senate without a battle, today revealed an unbroken line of opposition in the ranks of the old Democratic-insurgent coalition, which dominates the upper branch of Congress.

Both Smith and Vare will be barred by the Senate when they seek their oaths of office, the coalition leaders declared, or the Senate will show the greatest and most unexpected reversal in all history. At present indications, these leaders averred, Smith

When you see them pass, wave a friendly hand, and let them know you are glad they're here. Put out a smile that is genuine and radiate good will and cheer. For the delegates will adjudge the town by the way they're treated by you and me, never mind the rain and the gloomy clouds, and the temperature which is fifty-three. Be a booster today and the days to come and the folks will go way with no feel of regret, and you will be glad as you pass them by that the delegates and yourself have met. Have a smile for them, and a kindly word, and a shake of the hand that will cheer them on, and make them feel that we've quite a town, and they'll think of it much when the convention's gone.

Atlantic Flights Again Draw World Attention

(International News Service)

Five trans-Atlantic flights are actually under way today and are in course of preparation.

Miss Ruth Elder and Pilot George W. Haldeman are somewhere out over the Atlantic today in the plane "American Girl," enroute from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., where they hopped off yesterday at 5:04 p. m., for Paris.

Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Le Brix, French airmen, are at St. Louis, Senegal, Africa, on a trans-Atlantic flight from Le Bourget, near Paris, to Buenos Ayres, via Pernambuco, Brazil.

Miss Frances Grayson and Pilot Wilmer Stultz, who flew from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to Old Orchard, Maine, Monday on the first leg of a trans-Atlantic flight, are preparing to hop off for Paris.

The German hydroplane D-1220, piloted by Horst Merz, hopped off at Warnemunde, Germany, this afternoon for Amsterdam, where Merz will decide whether to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight or make an aerial tour of Europe.

Leon Givon and Pierre Corbu, French flyers, who got lost in fog over France after beginning a trans-Atlantic flight, are busy with preparations for another flight which may take them to Brazil.

File Plans For Wide Highways In Lawrence Co.

Roads Concerned Are Those From Beaver Falls And Youngstown

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—Plans for the ultimate right-of-way for two sections of State Highway in Lawrence County have been filed by the Department of Highway with county commissioners. Both sections call for a width of 100 feet on the open road with narrower widths in the towns.

The 1921 session of the legislature passed a bill providing for the filing of ultimate rights-of-way for the various counties. This is aimed to reduce the cost of property damages when highways are made wider to meet growing traffic needs. Persons who build structures within the rights of highways after the widths have been filed cannot receive damages under the law.

The two sections in Lawrence county are:

Legislative Route 77, distance 9.44 miles, starting at Lawrence-Beaver county line and extending northerly through Big Beaver and North Beaver townships and Wampum borough to the city of New Castle. The highway is known as the New Castle-Beaver Falls Road. No width is declared through the borough of Wampum and it is reduced to 60 feet in Newport.

Legislative Route 81, distance 11.69 miles, starting at New Castle city line and thence northwestwardly through Union, Mahoning and Pulaski townships to the Ohio state line. Through New Bedford the width will be 60 feet.

HEAR TESTIMONY IN PLANE CRASH PROBE

Pa. We believe that the accident was unavoidable."

The members of the jury returning this verdict were Thomas Cunningham, G. N. Clark, W. W. Stevenson, Charles W. Haus, H. K. Bell and William Haering.

Coroner J. P. Caldwell presided at the inquest and District Attorney J. Elder Bryan questioned the various witnesses. There was nothing brought out that would indicate that all possible precautions had been taken in the operation of the plane.

First Witness.

Clare Smith, son of the man killed, was the first witness called. He stated that the airplane had been operated on a verbal agreement existing between himself and L. R. Hendricks and William Castle. He had the fields of N. C. Patton adjacent to the fair grounds under lease for that purpose, he said. He planned to have an Erie aviator, who owned and operated his own plane, do the flying. This aviator on visiting Mr. Smith previous to the opening of the fair, had informed him that he was doubtful if he could be here for more than one day. He had told this aviator, Mr. Smith stated, to let him know what he could do as soon as possible so that he could make other arrangements. Mr. Patton had told him of Castle being over several times, trying to lease the ground, which he already had under lease.

On the Monday previous to the opening of the fair, the Erie aviator had informed him that he could not be here. He then called Castle and he and Mr. Hendricks, the other owner of the plane, came over Tuesday morning. Arrangements were made for the flights during the fair on a commission basis, Smith to receive 40 per cent and Hendricks and Castle 60 per cent.

They did not come over Wednesday because the weather conditions were such as would make rough flying, according to Castle and Hendricks. They came over in an automobile to see how weather conditions were here and finding them better than in Youngstown, Castle arrived here that evening about 5:30 o'clock in the plane.

They started making flights on Thursday, September 29, about noon. Castle made no statement as to ownership of the plane, but Smith understood that it was owned by he and Hendricks. There was no statement made to Smith with regard to being licensed as a pilot on the part of Castle and he did not ask.

Accident Occurs.

Smith, Castle and Hendricks were all selling tickets for rides in the plane. Whoever was near when a trip started would assist the passengers into the plane. Kenneth Smith, his father, rode in the plane that day. He thought it was about 4:30 o'clock that afternoon when his father got into the plane. It went away in good shape. It circled the fair grounds and was coming in, the aviator doing what is termed "banking it" in making a landing, when it went into a spiral and came down. All the occupants of the plane, his father, Clarence Martin and Castle, the aviator, were injured. His father died an hour later in the New Castle hospital.

Clare Smith stated that he had heard no complants during the day relative to the machine not working all right. He had heard nothing said about not making this last trip. It had clouded up but it was his opinion that other trips would have been made if the accident had not occurred. His wife did not go up with his father, he said, because there was a passenger, Clarence Martin, who had paid his fee. She had intended to make the trip.

L. R. Hendricks of Youngstown, O., stated on being called that he was part owner of the plane. He and Mr. Castle owned it on a fifty-fifty basis. They came over Wednesday in an automobile to determine on weather conditions and finding them all right, Castle flew the airplane over, while he brought over supplies in an automobile. It was about noon Thursday when they started making flights.

He was of the opinion that the plane made about thirty trips before the accident occurred. He stated that they had no Federal license, as it was not required as long as they made no flight across state boundaries, according to the interpretation of the Federal regulations given them. The two federal inspectors here since the accident, he said, were themselves unable to give the same interpretation concerning the regulations.

He had noticed the plane take off and clear the boundaries of the field and it was 75 to 100 feet in the air, when it came back to the field. As far as he knew, there was a miss in the motor that caused the return to the field, possibly caused by water in the carburetor. The engine, he stated was in A-1 condition. The engine missed or knocked, but this was not detrimental to the flying of the machine, the revolutions of the motor being what is essential. This knocking was characteristic of the motor.

Joseph Knowles was the next witness called. He had been acting with Robert McClenahan and others as police officers at the fair. They were engaged in parking cars. They had noticed the plane on this last trip as it left the field, circled the race track. He noticed it wobble as it was over the Patton home. He saw the nose dive. He, McClenahan, and State Police Officers Brush and Munsee rushed to the cornfield where the plane landed. Martin was on one side and Smith on the other. An exhaust pipe was over the legs of Martin and also his abdomen. Smith was terribly cut on the left side of the head. They lifted the men out of the plane as quickly as possible and as soon as they could move the exhaust pipes. They rushed the injured men to the New Castle hospital.

State Police Officer Brush was on the first car carrying one of the injured men helping to clear traffic and he and Munsee on the second car. They left the place about 6:15 o'clock and arrived at the hospital about 6:30 o'clock.

H. N. Munsee, state police officer, was then called and stated that he had noticed the plane flying low over the fairgrounds. He heard someone yell and turned just as the plane crashed to the ground. He ran over, then directed traffic. He had accompanied one of the cars to the Harlansburg road.

Aviator Testifies

William Castle of Youngstown, O., was the next witness and stated that he was the aviator in charge of the plane that crashed at the fairgrounds. He had checked the motor on each flight. He had noticed a gradual development of what he termed a spark knock. This was taken away by retarding the throttle or shutting down the supply of gasoline. There was nothing serious in this rattle or spark knock, due he said to pre-ignition causes and could be eliminated by cutting down the throttle. The ignition of a plane, he said is on the same principle as that of an automobile except that it is at a higher point. A change of fuel was made at the landing field. He had not made a forced landing in coming over here. On the flight previous to the crash, he had run into the tail end of a rain storm. You are all right, if ahead of the storm but after a storm, the air is gusty or full of air pockets, as generally known. This makes flying harder. On coming down on this trip previous to the crash, he had taken the machine to a point for the purpose of staking it down. The storm blew over and he thought nothing about it.

The motor had more power than needed, he stated. This made it possible to stop down the throttle to eliminate the spark knock. When they were up about 75 to 100 feet on the crash trip, he noticed a miss in the engine, which stopping down the throttle did not stop. It seemed to get worse. He decided to return to the field. There was a mixture of gasoline in the tank of the machine, consisting of that which they started out with and that which had been supplied by Mr. Smith and had been added from time to time as needed.

As he was coming back to the field, he did what is known as banking the machine to make the landing. A gust of wind turned the machine up on its edge. He attempted to start the motor to right this condition and it stalled and failed to respond.

The plane started down on what he termed a side slip and then went into a spiral nose down. It turned over probably one time, he said. It did not land head on, as generally thought.

Mr. Castle stated that he had been flying for three years. He had no Federal license to fly, he said. They had application for what is known as identification numbers and these were received after he left the hospital following the crash. A license is needed only under certain conditions, which did not exist in this case. The machine was probably five or six years old and was of the standard Wright Aeronautic Company manufacture, still made and in general use. The machine was designed to carry two passengers and the age of the machine, he said was determined, by the flying time since last overhauled. The time was sixteen flying hours on this machine.

Clarence Martin who was injured in the crash was unable to be present on account of his injuries.

Expense Bills Not Yet All In

County Commissioners Clerk James Lamoree has not yet secured all the bills for the primary election and is unable to give an estimate as yet of the cost. Some of the bills which are out pertain to the rent of buildings in which the primary was held. It is expected that the cost will run over $12,000.

Mrs. Grayson Makes Ready For Ocean Hop

(International News Service)

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, ME., Oct. 12.—Preparations were being rushed here this noon by Mrs. Frances Grayson for the jump to Copenhagen aboard the airplane "Dawn".

Mechanics placed aboard the "Dawn" 850 gallons of special petrol, the two Wright whirlwind motors were cleaned and tested. All parts of the handsome "ship" were washed with gasoline.

"It looks like we will take off between 5 and 6 o'clock this afternoon," said the plucky aviatrix.

Final test flights and favorable weather reports received by Mrs. Grayson and her pilot Wilmer L. Stultz and navigator Brice Goldsborough convinced them that the time had come for the long hop to Denmark.

Big holiday crowds watched the fueling of "The Dawn" in front of the hangar.

PREDICTS BOTH SMITH AND VARE WILL BE BARRED

will be excluded by an even greater majority than barred him from the 69th Congress, while Vare will be denied a seat by a margin of at least 15 votes.

Senator George W. Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, insurgent leader, characterized as "silly" the reports on a change of heart on the part of the Vare and Smith opposition.

Says Report Silly

"There is no truth to such silly reports," said Norris. "There is a great principle involved in these cases and the Senate has twice gone on record opposed to such slush funds as were revealed in the Smith and Vare campaigns. If the slush fund charges were sufficient to bar Smith on an appointment by the governor of Illinois—which in itself was not subject to attack—certainly no senator will contend that he has a right to sit in the Senate for the elective term.

"I anticipate no change of front on this very vital principle of clean government. If the Senate should change heart, it would stultify itself."

Senator Nye, Republican, of North Dakota, insurgent, said: "If these men are to be seated, then the day is not far distant when each and every one of the 96 seats in the Senate will be placed on auction and knocked down to the highest bidder. I am confident the Senate will bar both Smith and Vare."

A Democratic leader, who declined to be publicly quoted, said: "these stories about Vare and Smith getting seated without a fight are pure bunk. The Democrats, who opposed seating Smith last spring, will not stultify themselves by voting to seat him this fall. Much propaganda is going out in behalf of Vare and Smith, but I expect both will be barred."

Some reports recently predicted the seating of both men because Senator William H. King, Democrat, of Utah, issued a statement saying both should be given the oath of office. Investigation, however, would have shown that King was paired in favor of giving Smith the oath last spring and paired against the resolution which barred Smith from the Senate. King's recent statement merely reaffirmed his previous position.

The vote against Smith last January was 48 to 33—a margin of 15 votes—and a study of the vote indicated the opposition to him in the next Senate would have a better chance of gaining votes than his defense. Of those who supported Smith last January, six senators were "lame ducks".

Justice Pays Fine And Costs In Case

Court Davis, Justice of the Peace of Shenango township, entered a plea of guilty to assault and battery and was fined $5 and costs by Alderman Green. Davis was mixed up in a fight near the Clifton Flats school house. Harry Horney, who went out to separate the belligerents and was badly used up and arrested with Davis, was discharged, as there was no evidence to show that he was in any way responsible for the trouble. Davis and Horney were brought to the county jail by County Detective Fleming, following the trouble.

and a half of the boardwalk frontage was burned. For a distance of three blocks back of the boardwalk houses were either destroyed or damaged by the flames, which for a time threatened to wipe out the entire residential section of the city.

The firemen did great work in checking the flames at the Strand Hotel, where there were about 200 guests. This is a six-story frame structure. The guests fled from the building, many of them in night attire.

In the meantime the flames had destroyed small stores on the boardwalk, two bath houses, the Normandie Hotel, the Colonial theater, the Traymore Hotel and several private residences. Thirty automobiles were destroyed. The Traymore and Normandie Hotels had been closed for the season.

Four firemen were overcome. Police and firemen were aided by 200 Boy Scouts.

"Free" Examination "Worth Its Cost" Says Dr. Rosenthal

Dr. Harry H. Rosenthal, New Castle Optometrist with offices on the third floor of the Greer building, scores the practice of "free" eye examinations sometimes practiced among members of his profession, in a recent interview.

"There are a few things I feel that are somewhat in the past and should no longer be connected with the honest practice of Optometry—and that is the so-called "free" examination. When you are informed that more than $4,000.00 has been invested in delicate instruments and modern equipment for my optical office, to give my patients the most accurate and exact eye examination, you will realize that I can not afford to give the use of these costly instruments without charge—"free". My patients are reasonable and do not expect it. And this $4,000.00 does not include the years of time and study, the special knowledge and invaluable experience I have accumulated to offer my patients."

"I said no reasonable person expects a "free" examination, for most reasoning people will come to the conclusion that what is "free" is worth just its cost—and not a penny more." One of his patients recently expressed herself this way, Dr. Rosenthal says, "I would not accept a "free" eye examination, lest I be made to pay for it in the price of the glasses, or lest the examination be worthless."

Dr. Rosenthal explains his position and policy in the phrase, "an honest optical service at reasonable prices." "By such a policy, I am gaining the confidence of the people of New Castle and towns about—building my practice on a solid basis, with satisfaction assured in every case," Dr. Rosenthal says.

WELCOME TO NEW CASTLE!

NEW CASTLE is delighted with the privilege afforded this week of acting as host to the hundreds of delegates sharing in the wonderful convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, and it is with more than the usual degree of gratification that a welcome is extended to them.

Not only is New Castle pleased to greet the delegates of this worthy organization because of the splendid Sabbath School work that is being accomplished throughout the state, and the inspirational and educational opportunities afforded during the sessions to be held in this city, but as well because of the fact that Percy L. Craig, of New Castle, is president and has been for some years, does this city feel a deep gratification at being able to harbor the 1927 convention.

Throughout the state it has been prophesied that this convention in President Craig's home city, would be the climax of all conventions so far held. One of the reasons for this prediction was the fact that it would in a peculiar sense be a tribute to the president and the magnificent work that he is accomplishing as head of the great Sabbath School organization of the state. Another was the unusual facilities that New Castle, by reason of the Scottish Rite Cathedral auditorium, was enabled to offer in the way of taking care of convention sessions. Never before has any convention of the State Sabbath School Association been held where an audience of 3500 could be assembled at the main sessions. The possibilities of inspiration from such a situation have been an impetus to the immense gathering in this city.

Likewise, the notable hospitality of New Castle on former occasions has figured in the predictions for the greatest convention in the state's history of Sabbath School work.

It is the fondest hope of all New Castle that every delegate who comes to New Castle this week will go home feeling that the convention has been one of the most helpful in their life, that the programs provided have given an impetus to the important work of the Sabbath Schools throughout the keystone state, and that the hospitality and capability of New Castle in taking care of the convention will be pleasantly remembered.

It is with rather a pardonable sense of pride that New Castle entertains this convention. It is realized that this city offers advantages as a convention city for immense gatherings that few cities of like size in the country can boast. But these excellent facilities are offered to this convention, only in the hope that they may be of real service in stimulating the great work that is ever the aim and accomplishment of the Sabbath Schools of this state, a work that is worthy of the best that any man or woman can give.

Welcome, Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association officers, speakers, workers, and delegates!

The Way of the World

TOO MANY LAWS

An old Roman by the name of Tacitus used to say that "when the state is most corrupt then are laws most multiplied." In other words it's no sign we have good government in state or nation because we make so many lows. It's a sign there are many things the matter with the individual. And when there are things the matter with the individual there are things the matter with the government. We need a lot of repealing of old laws, a lot of observance of some good ones, and few new ones of any kind.

PROHIBITION

One of the real problems of humankind in this country is to make men and women really want prohibition—or to be really interested in it. The reason the attempt to enforce prohibition in American is pretty much of a failure, is not so much due to incompetent or dishonest officials as it is due to the many thousands who either don't want prohibition, or don't take any interest in it.

WHAT ARE ADULTS?

"Growing up" has mostly to do with the body. There is not yet much "growing up" in the mind. A few days ago 145,000 men and women gathered in a big playground in Chicago for the fun of seeing two grown men fight each other with their fists. There were few children present. That is to say there were few children present as far as bodily indications showed. But those men and women were not grown up (the writer of this column was there too) they were just children playing. They were so-called adults doing what they would like to be doing most of the time—playing, yelling, pounding each other on the back, acting like the barbarians which we really love to be. This serious world is rather too much for us. We seek to escape it as often as we can. Our ancestors were first animals, then barbarians, then children. Within us we are all three.

INSTINCT

By reason of his prehistoric inheritance man is still mostly a creature of instinct. He has developed a bit of a mind and a few rational ideas. With those rational ideas he has built himself a conventional world to live in. But now that he has it, he doesn't like his conventional world.

If you don't believe it, check up on yourself. Which would you rather do—go north in the summer time, let your whiskers grow, fish, hunt, and have a bully good time, or stay home and read the story of philosophy?

Sentence Sermons

By Rev. Roy D. Smith, D. D.

IF WE ALL DID—

Just what we had to do the best of this world's work would never be done.

No more than we are paid for it would be a world of wretchedness.

The thing as it has always been done there would never be any progress.

As well as we know there would be little to criticize.

Today's duties today, tomorrow would be almost the millennium.

Our own work as well as we can advise others we would not need to worry.

Our duty without being watched we could cut taxes down pretty low.

Bible Thought For Today

FAITHFUL WAITING:—Behold, as the eyes of servants look unto the hand of their masters and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her mistress; so our eyes wait upon the Lord our God until that he have mercy upon us. Psalm 123.2.

PRAYER:—So would we daily serve waiting on Thee O Lord, and thereby renew our strength.

Doubtless courtship has always been a chase, but in the old days the man was behind instead of two jumps ahead.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:25. Sun rises tomorrow 6:09.

Half the world doesn't care how the other half lives, but it does want to know what the other haft is doing.

A film actor in Hollywood got a divorce from his wife on the testimony of a colored maid employed in his home. She testified that the actor bought as many as three quarts of Scotch at one time and he tried to make them last at least a day and a half. And we pay our good money to see pictures made by that kind of birds.

Stenographers who used to waste a lot of time fussing with their back hair now spend the time juggling a lipstick.

Well, the Sunday school folks are about all here and they look fine in New Castle. We hope they are all well fixed up and set for the great convention now in full swing. Nice looking lot of folks!

The Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania will be in New Castle next week. Now, right away without thinking, tell us what his name is. Of course you do not know it. It is Arthur Horace James.

When a woman wills all her property to her husband it is a pretty good sign that she thought well of him at least when she was making her will.

Crooks, sometimes find that with all the laws, there are not enough to protect the criminal, when Justice once makes up his mind.

When the newly appointed Judge Chambers steps up to the bench he looks as if he had always been used to a seat there instead of struggling with difficult cases before it. He will make good.

A girl always thinks her last fiance is the best one she ever had.

Clothes do not make the woman now either.

An alibi is simple indeed. All that one has to do is to prove that he was at the place where he wasn't in order to show that he wasn't at the place where he was.

Financiers in high places declare there will be no more financial panics. You cannot make people who are short of real money believe that. People who are out of cash are going through a panic. Only those who are out of cash can really and fully realize that condition.

Most men recognize the neighbor's baby by it's nurse.

The King of England has given orders that all maid servants in his household must have unbobbed heads. We do not think this order is going to make them think any kindlier of the king. When you go to interfere with the personal appearance of a woman you are going to get in bad.

There is a farmer friend of the Hints and Dints man who is ninety years old and he has been ailin' a little lately. His wife thinks sometimes that maybe farming does not agree with him.

There is one good thing about employing a new cook. Company seldom comes a second time.

In the summer we said our tomato crop was about a failure. It seems we did not have summer tomatoes. We have gathered several bushels of fine tomatoes during the past few weeks. We forgive the man who sold them to us, as we thought for a while they were wild grape vines.

The man who has dogs to sell is the greatest lover of dogs.

We have found in our short and troubled life that it is most always safe to follow the leaders of industry when it comes to selecting public officials. These men seem to sense the kind of men who should be elected.

Is there any one who thinks that kind of men would not be for the best interests of a city or county? Forget it if you do.

Men no longer live and die under the care of the family physician. They are passed along among the specialists.

The great danger in most modern elections is the great number of people who vote at them do not care how they vote and listen to men—and also women—who either have selfish motives or are misguided.

Doctors are queer. They keep on advising against going to bed on a full stomach, though very few people lie that way.

People who seek trouble find it running towards them.

Getting your premises nicely cleaned up before winter sets in is a mighty good stunt. It not only helps keeping the places sanitary in the winter when diseases are the most prevalent, but things will also look better when spring comes. Guard your health by keeping your own hide and and your premises clean.

In the spring when we hear a song bird singing a tune we believe every word of it.

A Chicago man who was sentenced to be hung seven times and reprieved seven times, finally ended it all by hanging himself in his cell. His wife said his dying that way is better for his three little children. There seems to be some good things about every tragedy.

It is the opinion of traffic experts in Pennsylvania that traffic should be diverted around a city instead of through it or over streets that are congested. They say merchants have gotten over the idea that all tourists should pass their doors. One thing is dead sure you have to get traffic away from congested districts to get rid of it.

MOTHERS-IN-LAW TO BLAME

Mothers-in-law have more to do with breaking up marriages in America than any other cause. This is the judgement of the Legal Aid Society based on 47 years of experience. Fathers-in-law have proved themselves quite harmless, the society says, they play the role of innocent bystander. Three reasons for the mother-in-law complex, according to the Aid Society, are: First, no mother thinks any other woman's child is good enough for her own; secondly, a mother frequently sees in the marriage of her child the thwarting of her own plans and ambitions; and, third, where the boy or girl has been a wage earner, the mother dislikes sharing her accustomed income with another. How about it?

A woman may get more thrill out of a mouse, but she gets more exercise out of a moth.

"Years after the bones of the athlete have crumbled into dust the influence of the scholar will be on earth," moralizes a reflective editor. True enough. The influence of the scholar will train lawyers to teach the athlete's heirs how to evade the income tax.

The "M. D." the "diploma-mill" doctor writes after his name, means money did it.

As usual, we have a man with us who predicts one of the old-fashioned winters that we read about for this year. We're to get everything on the weatherman's list, so we're told. Well, anyway, winter lasts but three months, no matter whether it is cold or mild, so let winter come.

We've gone at this taxation thing wrong in this country. We've taxed ability to earn and not ability to pay.

A fisherman out in Indiana claims he caught a big catfish that was wearing a dog collar. If he would keep on fishing he might be able to catch a dog fish wearing the cat's pajamas.

Judging from the amount of target practice that is being held down in Mexico, we would judge that they are getting ready to hold another presidential election.

Croquet is coming back, is the news that comes from old Virginia. Well, it is a good thing. It is more scientific than quoits, not so strenuous as tennis, and not nearly as expensive as golf.

With Von Hindenburg at 80 making a record as President of Germany, no one can say that Charles E. Hughes at 65 is too old to run.

Now that corn roasts are down and out for another season, maybe some good fellow will hold a buckwheat cake eating party as soon as the sugar begins to run.

Hallowe'en is but one day in the year, and an antiquated and useless day at that, but a lot of rowdies seems to think it gives them license for a couple of weeks before and after that date.

We read in the papers that a merchant in an Illinois city dropped dead just after he had made the first sale in his new store. Someone probably told him that business was rotten, and evidently he believed it. The reverse proved too much for his heart.

About the only way to make some people sensible is to knock them senseless.

Clothiers in convention come out with the claim that the men are becoming style conscious, whatever that means. Our own little opinion is that some of the present day styles would knock even the roughest of men unconscious.

Great discretion is shown in placing Thanksgiving where it is, for then it comes before that troublous time when Congress assembles.

When business is good there are plenty of people who can tell you how to make it better, but when business is a little off color, these people are not to be found anywhere.

It is a London scientist who says now that women are proof of the correctness of Darwin's theory. That probably accounts for the way Eve got that first apple; she probably climbed the tree and gave it to Adam.

The dumb will speak over Jordan; but not, we hope, in microphones.

Another use has been found for the present day moonshine. It will remove warts, we are informed. And if you stick the whole finger in and let it remain long enough, the whole finger will be gone.

One of the U. S. senators came out with a demand that all speeches in the Senate be broadcasted at the coming session of Congress. Now us radio fans will have something to say about that. A radio is different from a d—— fool. If you tired of hearing it you can shut it off.

Human beings spend their time reading of things that should and would not happen, in real civilization.

Five men are burned alive, trapped like rats, in a lodging house, known to be a fire trap. To make it safe would have cost money.

In one city three women are clubbed into insensibility, two girls badly beaten, two men stabbed and in danger of death.

That is a small part of one day's crime record. Putting big type above such news fails to interest the crowd in it.

The fact that so-called "fashionable" ninnies crowd a restaurant in Paris, because it charges 50 francs a dozen for oysters, is more interesting.

Fools fighting boredom are more interesting than ordinary citizens fighting the well established nation-wide crime wave.

R. A. Grady, secretary of Kiwanis club of Duluth, invites you to see the western terminal of the Great Lakes to ocean waterways, and the vast open pit mines that supply iron for all parts of the world.

Minnesota, its great mines, growing cities and able citizens should be visited by everybody. And eastern cities, especially that think they have fine public schools, should see the public schools of Minnesota.

To say that there are no finer in the world, is putting it mildly. New York has the money, but western states, California, Minnesota and others have the public schools. And those schools will transfer the balance of power, even as regards money, from the east to the west.

"The gasoline tank exploded, and the men were burned to death."

That describes a flying fatality; which of the great industrial laboratories will develop a fuel to prevent such accidents?

Germans are making Diesel engines light enough per horsepower for dirigibles. They are still too heavy for lighter-than-air planes, but additional improvement may overcome that and in proportion to flying radius, their load of fuel is much lighter than the airplane's gasoline load.

Russell Scott, murderer, hanged himself in a Chicago jail and science demands the right to examine his brain. Others hang, shoot, drown and poison themselves, without attracting attention.

But Michel Billie, coal miner and widower, in Pennsylvania, compels attention.

He sat in his little parlor, tied two sticks of dynamite to his head, one on either side, set them off and blew his head and parlor out of shape.

Why should that interest us more than the lovelorn girl swallowing iodine, or the ruined stock gambler jumping from his hotel window. It does interest us more.

Dr. Campbell, able astronomer, calls our earth, with its many fine real estate corners, "Just an insignificant point in the universe of countless spheres," and adds it would be unthinkable that our world is the only planet that supports life.

Few do assume it, who know that life can exist wherever oxygen and water exist, and that the spectroscope shows oxygen and hydrogen throughout the universe. We cannot see life on other planets. Even on the moon, object nearest to us, nothing smaller than a big skyscraper would be visible through a modern telescope. But men no longer believe only what they see. They cannot see the radio working through the ether, but they believe that it works.

Science will some day, build a telescope, enabling us to see life on other planets, which will probably amaze us, as when we first saw microscopic life in a drop of stagnant water.

Alfred Russell Wallace, a great scientist, co-discoverer of evolution with Darwin, persuaded himself that human life and intelligence were a monopoly of this earth. But he was old and did not give the laws of nature credit for sufficient versatility.

The situation in the Balkans is described as "more acute". Jugo-Slavia and Bulgaria, for reasons that would seem trivial to us, far away, may decide on war at any time.

Let us hope it will not start anything expensive for us, as did the Sarajevo incident in 1914.

Poland and Lithuania contribute their complication to Europe's troubles. Fortunately Pilsudski, Polish dictator, seems able to take care of his situation, with France, and a huge army back of him.

A dictator, in earnest, like Mussolini or Kemal Pasha, seems to be the best investment for the average European country, now that the world has been made safe for democracy.

THE CAREER OF JERDANOWITCH

The career of Pavel Jerdanowitch is instructive. His paintings have been exhibited in Chicago and New York and have been favorably commented upon by many of the art journals of America and France.

The French journal, the Review of the True and the Beautiful, asked for the artist's interpretation of his pictures and also for his autobiography. It published a reproduction of one of his paintings, saying, among other things: "This artist has a distinctly individual manner in representing people and objects, and uses the brush to symbolize the sentiments. Pavel Jerdanowitch is not satisfied to follow ordinary paths. His spirit delights in intoxication, and he is a prey to the aesthetic agonies which are not experienced without suffering."

The artist in question grew a beard, wrinkled up his forehead and, looking very Russian, supplied his photograph, also his autobiography.

He said he was born in Moscow and came to America ten years ago. He claimed his picture represented the breaking of shackles of womanhood. Women were prohibited from eating bananas on her native island. The woman in the picture had just taken a luscious bite and was waving the banana skin in triumphant new freedom!

As a matter of fact it was all a hoax.

Pavel Jerdanowitch is none other than Paul Jordan Smith, an author, who doesn't know anything about paintings and doesn't claim to.

His wife is somewhat of an artist, Sarah Bixby Smith. Just for fun he painted a picture of a woman eating a banana and her mouth filled with the luscious fruit. Triumphantly she waved the skin in her hand. A skull lurked in the background.

An artist visiting him took Paul Jordan Smith's picture for a Gauguin. Smith suggested that he couldn't see much in it himself but a crude daub. "Oh' but you can't see into the artist's soul," replied the other. "There is probably a great thought behind it."

So Paul Jordan Smith sent his picture to the Waldorf Astoria for an exhibition in the spring of 1925 and ascribed it to Pavel Jerdanowitch, a name he had made up. He called his masterpiece, "Exultation". The critics fell over themselves to praise his work and art reviews spoke highly of it.

All of which goes to show that some high brow talk is purely bunk.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A MODERN PLEA

Charles A. Judson is a California rancher. He possesses a cow among other belongings. He has for his immediate neighbors the Georgeson Brothers, who possess a bull. Notwithstanding a fence "horse high, bull strong and pig tight", running between the respective ranches of these citizens, the bull was found one day by Judson and his ranchmen upon the Judson ranch. Before the bull could be captured and returned whence it came, considerable damage had been done. Thereupon Mr. Judson visited his attorney's office, and in the course of time a suit was brought against the Georgeson Brothers for the damages caused by their bull.

In answer to this suit the attorneys for the Georgeson Brothers denied all of the allegations contained in the complaint filed by the attorney for Rancher Judson, and in conclusion, for a "further and separate answer" the attorneys for the Georgesons alleged:

"As our first ancestor, Adam, when the Angel came to blame, laid temptation to the female, in this case we do the same; for the cow owned by the plaintiff tempted Ursus to his fall. And the fault was not the defendants, but was that of plaintiff—all."

"These defendants held their cattle by a strong and legal fence, but the cow of the said plaintiff broke the gate that entered thence, and enticed bull of defendants to follow out the pale. For the female of the species is more deadly than the male."

"And the services of Sir Ursus was of value dollars ten which the plaintiff without paying has obtained despite of men; and said plaintiff is not damagd but is benefitted now. By a cow of Mr. Ursus and the Plaintiff's Jersey cow."

"Wherefore Defendants pray that plaintiff's action be dismissed and that defendants have judgment for their costs and disbursements herein."

The suit was tried in very short order. There was only one verdict which the Court could possibly entertain, for the answer of the defendants being read, the case was in actual fact, laughed out of court.

THE HAZARDOUS LIFE OF A KITTEN

Oh, what life a kitten leads
That's loved by one so young and small;
So very fierce the love that feeds,
I wonder that it lives at all.

'Tis fed a dozen times a day
On food no grown-up cat would take.
It's carried in so rough a way
Its little back must fairly ache.

It's grabbed and pulled and tugged and mauled.
And chased from dawn till time for bed.
Strapped in a little cart it's hauled
When it would rather walk instead.

It's kissed and stroked and squeezed in arms
Which would be tender if they knew
That sometimes love its idol harms
By what it thinks is good to do.

When love is only five years old
It has no mercy and no mind
To understand, though often told
That too much love may be unkind.

And so no wonder people say
To cats are given nine long lives.
She smothers it ten times a day
And yet somehow that kitten thrives!

C. B. D. CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

IN NEW YORK

Interesting visitors make the days pass beautifully. James Montgomery Flagg is one of the most interesting of this week's callers. It seems to me that I have seen his drawings in print since childhood. I expected to see a man with white hair and feeble step.

But Flagg doesn't look to be more than 40 years old, although Who's Who puts him down as 50. He is tall, slender, dark, with black hair. He has a particularly pleasing voice and an agreeable enunciation. He has immense enthusiasms. For instance, he is almost ecstatic in his admiration of John Barrymore's acting. He likes Barrymore as Hamlet so well that he doesn't care to see anybody else play that role.

Laird Archer, foreign director of the Near East Relief, was another of the week's most interesting callers, and I managed to have lunch with him to hear him talk about his work and interests.

Archer and I were roommates in Wichita, Kansas, when he was beginning work as a newspaper reporter and I was still in school. Since then he has been all over the world. For his honeymoon he took his bride to Athens, Greece, and lived there a couple of years. He has lived in Constantinople, and likes it. He has traveled through Russia and Turkey and the Balkan states, and he has learned something wherever he has gone.

The Archers picked up a little Russian boy in Asia Minor, shortly after the close of the war. The child was intelligent, of good parentage, but orphaned. They adopted him, and now they are very proud and fond of their boy, who is in high school. This experience of theirs contains food for a lot of thought.

Parenthood is an adventure, and a very astonishing one. But imagine the adventure of foster-parenthood, when your child is of foreign parentage, inheriting much from ancestors whose culture is utterly alien to anything you have ever known. There are possibilities here, I should think, for experiences even more engrossing than those that come to the average parent in the course of the unfolding of his own child's personality.

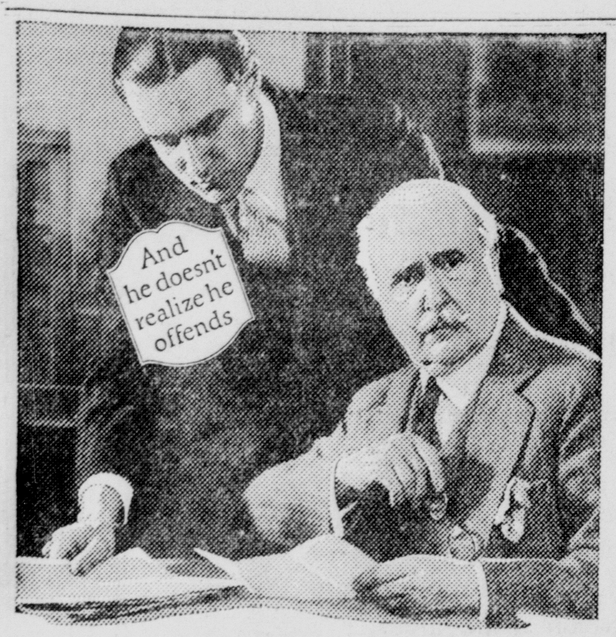
Foreign travel is broadening and educational if the traveler has an open mind and an observing eye. I rejoiced in the broadening and enlarging effects so evident in my Archer. Travel and experiences haven't been wasted on him.

Yet I have known a few globe-trotters and round-the-world cruisers who have apparently chased all over the globe with their eyes shut. Or maybe just their minds were closed. It's too bad that good shipping space must be used up on that type of traveler, when there are so many at home who might learn along the way.



Why risk body odor

when this hygienic toilet soap keeps pores purified?

STRANGE how quickly we notice body odor in others, yet so rarely know when we offend.

Though we may not seem to perspire at all, our pores constantly give off odor-causing moisture.

Yet it's easy to avoid embarrassment—use Lifebuoy. So refreshing millions bathe with it every day. It gives lasting freedom from body odor.

Keeps complexions healthy

A healthy skin is a clear, fresh glowing skin. And just as Lifebuoy's antiseptic lather purifies body pores, so does it purify face pores, keeping complexions soft, smooth and healthy looking.

Better still, it helps protect against disease—by removing unseen germs from hands.

Lifebuoy's clean, hygienic scent—which quickly evaporates after rinsing—tells you it gives greater safety. Yet Lifebuoy costs so little. It is orange-red, the color of its pure palm-fruit oils. Get it today.

Charity Work Made Possible

Associated Charities Supported Through Means Of Community Chest

SOME IDEA OF WORK IN CITY

Seeking out the obscure men and women and children who need the care of responsible people, the Associated Charities have well proven their worth in New Castle. Prevention is better than relief and cure, they believe but they have done good work in all three.

Destitute mothers, left with dependent children, sometimes numbering eight in a home, without the necessities of life and with no means of obtaining them; families left without means of support where the father has been sent to the insane asylum; families that the mother had deserted; these and countless others are typical examples of the heartbreaking cases to which this institution has rendered relief and has helped in building up the morale to a place where the unfortunates might take their place in the world as respectable citizens.

A sure cure for skepticism is to glance at the brief summary of part of the work which the Associated Charities have accomplished during 1927: Nearly 9,000 quarts of milk were furnished to undernourished children; over 1,400 items of supplies were issued to the needy, including shoes, clothing, bread, coal, flour, etc.; nearly 100 families in actual want were aided, representing 450 persons; nearly 800 calls were made including tubercular prevention work; 139 schools were visited and 115 talks on tuberculosis were given.

These are but few of the things which come to the attention and receive the care of this agency. In adition the Associated Charities support the Well Baby Clinic, Modern Crusaders, Mental Clinic work and inspection work of different kinds..

They are continually on guard to prevent the overlapping of relief work as they find that they have plenty to do in their own particular field. Their work is worthy of a direct result on the community at large for without the constant vigil of the Associated Charities and other agencies participating in the Community Chest fund New Castle's pitiful crop of stunted and misshapen minds and bodies would soon be staggering in size, civic and human progress would cease and true religion die.

Officers and board of directors of the Associated Charities are:

F. A. Hover president; J. K. Furst, first vice president; Mrs. J. L. Straton second vice president; J. G. Nothdurft, treasurer; Anna I. Gilliland, general secretary.

Board of Directors.

PULASKI NEWS

One of the pleasantest social events held in Pulaski for some time was that on Monday afternoon from two to four o'clock, when about 30 were entertained at the home of James Riblet. The party was in honor of Mr. Riblet's sister, Mrs. Francis Ferver's 72nd birthday anniversary. The affair was a complete surprise to Mrs. Ferver. An extremely large birthday cake of unusual beauty, with 72 pink candles, which was baked and presented by Mrs. W. S. Wilson of New Wilmington, was the main attraction. Later the honor guest, with the cake, which was placed on a stand on the west veranda, was photographed, the picture to be sent to Mrs. Ferver's son, John Ferver, of Newark, N. J., who was unable to be present. Mrs. H. H. Knox, in a few well chosen words, presented the honor guest in behalf of those present with a purse of money in memory of the day. A fine lunch was enjoyed and the hours spent in a social way. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Lostetter and daughters, Erma, Wilma and Marjorie, of Hendersonville, N. C.; Mrs. Florence McQuiston and Miss Frances Commer of Sharon, Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, Mrs. Stewart Price and daughter, Miss Marion Ferver; Mrs. W. S. Wilson of New Wilmington, Mrs. Weldon Allen, West Middlesex; Mrs. M. L. Porter, Mrs. H. E. Riblet of New Castle, Mrs. Adrian Schultz, Mt. Jackson; Mrs. E. L. Ayers, Mrs. E. C. Lostetter, Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. C. C. Boyd, Mrs. James Black, Mrs. Charles Mitcheltree, Mrs. M. I. Buchanan, Mrs. Charles Simpson, Mrs. H. K. Gilliland, Mrs. L. L. Rodgers, Mrs. William Cover, Mrs. J. B. Crawford, Mrs. A. W. Graham, Mrs. H. H. Knox, Mrs. Francis Taylor and James Riblet.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rodgers entertained the members of the Five Hundred Club at their home one evening recently A delicious lunch was enjoyed and the evening pleasantly spent in 500 and radio music.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church was entertained in a very pleasing manner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Taylor recently, when their son, Frederick Jr., entertained the members. Over 20 were present and the evening was spent with radio music and games. Special music was furnished by James Barr of New Wilmington. A very fine lunch was served by Mrs. Taylor, Miss Dorothy Strain and Frederick Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin N. Thompson attended the wedding of Miss Mildred Hodge of Greenville and Gerald Saunders of Sharon, which occurred at the home of Rev. and Mrs. F. E. Stough, pastor of St. John Lutheran church, New Castle, Monday at 11:30 a. m.

Frederick Blake returned to his home in Mantua, O., after spending a couple of days at Hotel Pulaski.

The regular meeting of the P. H. C. lodge was held Monday evening, with the president, B. T. Mitcheltree, presiding. Plans were arranged for the members to have a Hallowe'en party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Cook on Friday evening, Oct. 14.

Mrs. John Lawrence of Transfer, Pa., has been spending the past week the guest of Mrs. J. C. Mitcheltree.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCallister of New Castle spent Sunday the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Crawford.

Mrs. Lois Arrow of New Castle has been spending the week with her mother, Mrs. Mossuria Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Gilliland.

MOTHER!

A Child Doesn't Laugh and Play if Constipated

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which becomes clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is ofttimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Institute Once In Ellwood.

New Castle, Pa.
October 11, 1927.

Editor of The News

Dear Sir:—

Will you pardon me if I correct an error in Monday's issue in regard to the Lawrence County Teachers Institute being held outside the city of New Castle for the first time, this year.

When the late James Watson was serving his second term long about 1895 or 1896 he held one session in Ellwood City and the next year in New Wilmington. I was teaching in the county and attended both institutes.

I believe Prof. James M. Hughes can verify this statement, as he also was at both.

Respectfully,
MARY GRANDY COLLINS.

Quick Potato Salad

A housewife writes: "I found a quick way of making potato salad which is really good, by simply mixing green tomato relish with sliced cooked potatoes and hard boiled eggs, and then adding mayonnaise dressing and celery salt to taste. This way you can make potato salad, even when vegetables are not available or too high priced, and it saves time spent in chopping up separately the pickles, celery, onions, pepper, etc.

At this season you can't tell whether that feeling is appendicitis or mince pie.

"I agree with George White that Luckies are the best"

Said Flo Brooks to Lou Holtz while waiting for their cue to appear in "Manhattan Mary."

George White,
Producer of George White's Scandals, writes:

"In the theatre world, Luckies have become almost universal. Stage folks are very critical—voices must be kept in condition, throat irritation is a handicap. In 'George White's Scandals,' most actors and actresses whose voices are important smoke Luckies both for voice protection and finer flavor. For these reasons I prefer them, too."

George White

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

Future Policy Is Discussed By Mining Leaders

United Mine Leaders Gather In Pittsburgh For Important Conference

FIGHT AGAINST INJUNCTIVE DECREE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12. — Leaders of the United Mine Workers of America, including John L. Lewis, international president, Thomas Kennedy, international secretary-treasurer, and Philip Murray, international vice president, met here today to consider the union's future policy in connection with the federal injunction handed down here yesterday.

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker yesterday granted the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation a temporary injunction prohibiting United Mine Workers and their officers, from interfering in any way with the operation of the company's mines.

The injunction was considered one of the most drastic setbacks the miner's union has received in the strike that started on April 1 of this year, when the Jacksonville wage agreement expired, providing a scale of $7.50 a day.

The greatest legal talent at the command of the miners union will be brought here to fight the injunctive decree. Two methods of proceedure were open to the union: 1, To appeal the case immediately to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and 2, To put the case at issue immediately, and have it tried on its merits.

It was believed here the union would chose the first course and file an appeal at once with the Circut Court of Appeals. It was pointed out that in such cases, it is a general rule to advance the cases for hearings as soon as possible. It was believed Judge Schoonmaker would refrain from setting a date for trial, until the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals was handed down.

Odd Fellows Visit Grove City Home

Are Exceptionally Well Pleased With The Appearance Of Inn

GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 12.—The Wayside Inn, home for Odd Fellows, was visited Sunday by a large delegation of lodge members and their wives from several of the Pittsburgh districts. Over 100 automobiles deposited their loads at the home and the visitors, in charge of President Fenton of the board of directors of the Inn, presented the home with two electric sewing machines.

The visitors enjoyed a picnic lunch and coffee served in the large dining room of the Inn. An interesting after dinner program, including talks by President Fenton and Superintendent Eicholtz, was broken up by the necessary departure of the guests for the trip to Pittsburgh. All expressed themselves as being pleased with the appearance and hospitality of the Inn.

Lyons Is Named As Warren Postmaster

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 12.—Captain Karl Lyons of Warren, Pa., has been recommended as postmaster for the city of Warren, the third largest postoffice in the state by Congressman T. C. Cochran of this city.

Lyons will take charge of the office at once pending the confirming of his appointment by the senate. He is a veteran of the late World war and is recommended for the position by the united service men's association of Warren county.

The family is among the oldest in the county. Lyons was born in 1889. Following a public school education he attended and graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. He is at present engaged in the insurance business in Warren. The appointment carries a salary of $6,000 a year.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

SUNNY-BUNNY, RUN-AWAY!

Mrs. Grey Rabbit held up her paws. "Wait a minute, my dear young Two-Legs! One question at a time, if you please! Tch! Tch! Tch! So you haven't met Sunny-Bunny. How strange! I thought everybody knew him!

"Sunny-Bunny is my little son, the dearest little rabbit in the woods. As good as gold he is, if I do say it myself. He only has one fault, he will run away.

"Oh, dear me, that reminds me. He has run away! There's the answer to your first question. I am worried because I can't find my baby, and I was looking for him in the cabbage patch because one of my neighbors told me she saw him making tracks that way!"

"Well, if he is a little fellow he can't have gone very far," began Peter, but Mrs. Rabbit interrupted him, after the habit of the wood folk.

"You don't know Sunny-Bunny!" wailed she, and once more tears trickled down her trembling pink nose. "He can leap through the leaves faster than anyone you ever saw—he scoots out of sight before one can twitch his whiskers!"

Mrs. Rabbit was growing excited, and Peter tried to think of something comforting to tell her.

"You said Sunny-Bunny was clever. He will find his way back home, all right," he said, and smiled at Sunny-Bunny's mother.

Mrs. Rabbit refused to be comforted.

"He is, and would, if left to himself," sobbed she. "There is no short cut to the cabbage patch or the lettuce bed that he does not know. He could find his way home with his eyes shut and in the dark. 'Tis not that I am worrying about. But he is only a baby, and would make a tender morsel for more than one bloodthirsty prowler of the fields.

"Foxy and Weasel and Skunk and, worst of the four, the-Snake-that-Lives-in-the-Grass, these are only a few of the enemies that lie in wait for unwary little rabbits.

"Even Rover, who lives with the Two-Legs, and Whitie, the barnyard cat, although their masters give them plenty to eat so that they never suffer from hunger, think it great sport to chase a baby bunny until he drops dead from fright even if he hops into a hole in the ground out of their cruel clutches.

"Where, oh, where is my wandering boy? What dreadful thing has happened to him?"

Next—"A Little Grey Ear."

"FOXY, WEASEL, SKUNK AND SNAKE-IN-THE-GRASS, THESE ARE ONLY A FEW OF THE ENEMIES THAT LIE IN WAIT FOR UNWARY LITTLE RABBITS."

HALDEMAN URGES STREET CAR USE

States That Those Going To Work Or Shopping Could Relieve Traffic

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—Use the street car instead of your automobile when you go to work. That's the suggestion offered today by Richard C. Haldeman, president of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, offered as a means of lessening congestion in the business districts.

Haldeman asserts that he holds no brief for and is not interested in any electric railways company, but insists that trolleys serve the average city dweller on his way to work much better than the automobile.

"If men and women went to work in street cars; if shoppers rode down town in the electric cars; if automobiling time killers kept their machines in residential sections or on country roads" Haldeman said, traffic congestion in business districts would be partially solved.

To support his contention that the automobile is not a time saver the average shopper or worker, Haldeman points out that the average autoist who parks in a down town section loses at least 15 minutes in finding a place to park and then walking the rest of the distance to work.

It is the cars of these same persons he said, that they remain parked all day on busy streets and thereby help to narrow the travelable portion of thoroughfares.

Seven Ton Litters Weighed In Mercer

One 13 Pig Litter Weighs 3,000 Pounds

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 12.—From all indications Mercer county will hang out a new record in the number of ton litters that will be qualified this fall.

To date seven have already been weighed in and certified to the state.

It is reported that there are yet a number to be weighed with every expectation of securing an additional number.

The plan is that invoked several years ago. Litters of pigs are forced fed under a plan of scientific treatment for a period of 180 days and then weighed. If they reach the ton weights they qualify and their owner is returned to the state agricultural department as a member of this club which to a man engaged in the stock business means as much as a making a hole in one to his city neighbor.

The number of litters that have already qualified is on a par with previous years' records with so many litters on which the time limit has not expired that hold forth unusual expectations.

The record litter of the year weighed 3,000 pounds. There were 13 pigs in the family.

Contrasted with this prolific porkine family is the litter of eight pigs belonging to C. C. Dunlap of Mercer, weighed last which totaled a weight of 2294 pounds.

NECKING PARTIES ARE NOT PERMITTED

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 12.—Petting has been definitely classified by the Lancaster police department as an indoor sport.

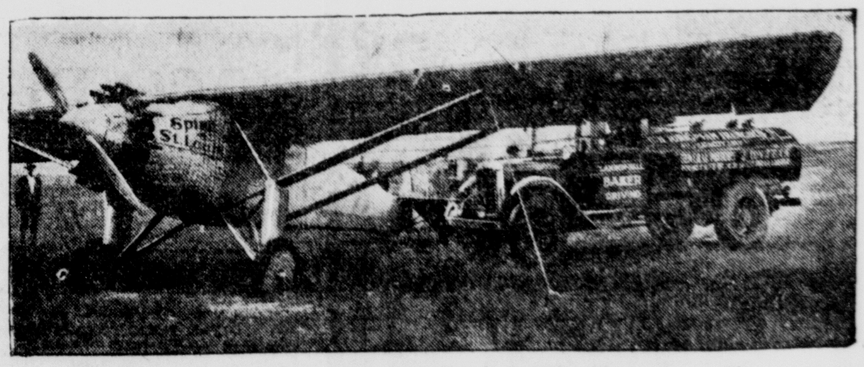
Police Matron Agnes Ferriter has opened a campaign against "necking parties" staged in automobiles on city streets and in the suburban lanes. The act is to be considered disorderly conduct, Miss Ferriter warns. Offenders to date have received letters from the lady cop, warning them to desist. Second offenders may find themselves in police court, she warns.

Six Injured In Pittsburgh Crash

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—A crash of two automobiles here early today caused six persons, among them two girls, to receive severe cuts and bruises about their bodies and faces, according to police reports. Michael White and William Chisholm, drivers of the machines were arrested, charged with reckless driving.

Here They Are—Two Record Makers



Two Pioneers—First Transcontinental Truck and First Transatlantic Plane.

Two pioneers in the automotive field are Lindbergh's plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis" and the "Cannon Ball" Baker General Motors two-ton truck which was the first to cross the American continent on a record run.

The development of the automotive engine made it possible for Lindbergh to cross the Atlantic in the first nonstop flight from New York to Paris; it also made possible the transcontinental records established by "Cannon Ball" Baker in the Buick-motored, Fast Duty Truck, on the run from New York to San Francisco.

Both Baker and Lindbergh began their careers with motorcycle driving and while Baker has hung up scores of records for motorcycle and automobile racing and driving, Lindbergh took to the air.

The Atlantic flight of Lindbergh and the first transcontinental trip of Baker with a truck have interesting comparisons.

Lindbergh travelled 3,610 miles; Baker, 3,603 miles.

"The Spirit of St. Louis" consumed 370 gallons of gas; the General Motors truck, 438 gallons.

Lindbergh's New York to Paris flight was accomplished in 38 hours and 29 minutes; Baker's New York to San Francisco run took approximately 103 hours and 59 minutes actual running time.

"The Spirit of St. Louis" when it hopped off Roosevelt Field, New York, weighed 5,300 pounds; the General Motors truck weighed 12,500 pounds when it left New York City.

The average revolutions per minute of the motor in the Ryan plane was 1609 and of Baker's truck, 2320.

Lindbergh's average speed was 108 miles per hour and Baker's approximately 35.5 miles per hour actual running time.

The G. M. C. Truck is distributed and serviced by Lawrence Automobile Co., New Castle, Pa.

During the first week of September all schools were inspected with regard to vacinations. Twelve children were sent home to be vaccinated by the school doctor because of lack of funds.

Several children entered school this year with boils, impetigo, scabies, cuts and sores which gave us plenty of emergency dressings beginning the first day of school. One child with an acute kidney condition was discovered at Oak street; at Lincoln and Garfield several cases of impetigo and scabies were excluded. There seemed to be an epidemic of boiles this fall. We have opened 24 during September and dress them daily until cured. We have had three crushed fingers and several infections from splinters or cuts. We have seen 20 cases of tonsilitis of which several were sent home to go to their family doctor. We have examined 18 heart cases which we excluded from physical exercise. Beside these we have had numerous cases of sick headaches, bowel trouble, cramps, sick stomach, toothache, infected blisters, stys, one broken finger and three bad sprains; also we have excluded several with pediculosis.

Besides these emergencies we have examined all the boys entering athletic contests, excluding thre on account of heart conditions.

On the 29th and 30th we inspected Thaddeus Stevens school excluding from school all contacts with the infantile paralysis case on Morton street. We also inspected all children for colds and sent home those cases which we felt were a menace to the other children. Also stopped the collection of old papers and magazines in the Thaddeus Stevens district for the present.

During the month we made four home visits, advised two children to go to the state mental clinic and made sanitary inspections at all school buildings:

Reuport of the school nurse, Miss Dodds:

Number of days spent with medical inspector in examining pupils, 17.
Number of pupils examined, 711.
Number of emergency cases, 10.
Number of dressings and treatments, 144.

The Daybook OF A New Yorker

BY BURTON RASCOE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Eccentricities of the first city of the nation.

I ordered a sandwich and a glass of beer in a small lunchroom recently, and vaguely sensed an unusual taste to the beer. When I looked at my check, I saw that the beer was listed at 25 cents. This seemed a bit steep and I asked the waiter if that was the right price.

"Yes, sir," he said. "You see, sir, that is real beer—five per cent alcohol. We don't serve near beer here any longer."

"But isn't that dangerous?" I asked.

"Not very dangerous, sir. The enforcement officers don't pay much attention to beer and besides the captain of this precinct likes it and comes over for a glass every day."

Small apartments are growing more popular every day. For some time, owners have found it profitable to convert apartment buildings of five and six room flats into one and two room suites. Now a great number of the new buildings under construction are made up of one and two room apartments exclusively.

In Greenwich village alone, I saw five new four and five story buildings which were made up entirely of one room cubby-holes. Some of them consist only in a fair sized room and a bath. Others have a sink, a gas range, an ice box and a fireplace—all in the same room. Even laundry tubs are sometimes contained in the living room, concealed either by a wooden panel or by an ordinary screen. Other new houses furnish in-a-door beds.

Prices for such places rang from $50 to $150 a month. Furnished apartments are higher.

A new chemical is offered to the New Yorker who makes his own liquor and it is proving highly successful. Looking much like ordinary tea leaves, the stuff sells for one dollar a jar. It is placed in a solution of 50 per cent grain alcohol and 50 per cent water and let stand for three weeks. At the end of that time, the resultant liquor is declared to be equal to any of the rye whisky now on sale by local bootleggers.

A young college boy tells me this brief adventure as an example of the height of misfortune: He picked up a flapper on Fifth avenue, who, he afterward learned, had 12 big brothers.

This also is a preposterous tale, but nevertheless true. An out-of-town auto poked its nose past a street corner at which the officer in charge had halted traffic. Smacking his lips in anticipation of a stout tongue lashing, that worthy walked over to the offending motorist. He began his tirade. The man in the car looked at him curiously, but unmovingly. Finally, the officer, in a rage at his failure to excite his victim, asked him angrily what excuse he had for running through traffic. The motorist drew forth a pad and wrote, "I am deaf and dumb. What did you say?"

Wherewith the delighted hangers-on were treated to the unique spectacle of one irate traffic cop, confining (with difficulty) his admonitory bombardments to the poor medium of pencil and paper.

A wily acquaintance who was doing over his house had some cards printed with the legend, "interior decorator," ornamenting the lower left hand corner. He presented these cards at the various fabric and furniture stores and got a hefty discount on all articles purchased. He is awfully proud of having saved so much money through what he calls just a little brain work. In private life, he is boss of a printing concern.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Well, Montanari has just finished the 1,700-mile marathon swim at the Y. M. C. A. pool, and, as his closest rival, I want to state that he is a very strong swimmer and with regular training he could do a good deal more.

The marathon, which really was 19 1-2 miles long, slightly longer than the original marathon run, is quite a distance after all. Next summer, though, I want to engage Montanari in a real long distance swim, to see what both of us can do.

Even the best of things have their sad moments. So eager have the men at The Castleton been to get everything in readiness that they have left some of the exclsior and packing of the furniture on the sidewalk. The other day the fire chief paid us a call and told us that it would have to be cleaned up. Well, it is all in the day's work, and it was cleaned up.

The largest pair of shoes that I ever have sold? Well, when I was working in Liverpool a farmer came into the store one day, and before I had him fitted up I pulled out almost every shoe that we had in stock. Finally I got him fixed up with size 14. But it is not often that one is called upon to show a man a shoe of this size.

Most men's feet, it seems, run about from size 7 to size 10. There are very few larger and still fewer smaller.

J. E. McCLOSKEY
Superintendent of Construction, The Castleton

Really, there is nothing that I can say about the progress of The Castleton. Just now we of the H. J. Conrath Company are hanging around, cleaning up the odds and ends and keeping the other people out of trouble.

But The Castleton is, to my belief, one of the finest hotels that I have ever seen. I do not mean that it is the largest, but you can take it from me as superintendent of construction that not one department has been slighted. Not any inferior material has been used throughout the entire house. In fact, may I say that it is one of the best jobs that I ever had anything to do with.

Not Only Beautiful— Easy to Keep Clean

We Recommend And Sell

The thing that appeals to us about CROMAR Oak Flooring is that it is filled, varnished and waxed at the factory and can be laid and used the same day.

But many housewives who have CROMAR in their homes seem to appreciate the ease with which CROMAR floors are cleaned as much as CROMAR beauty.

Call and see this unusual oak flooring. It costs no more than ordinary hardwood and often less.

Mrs. Frances Grayson Announces That She Will Start Atlantic Flight

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Postponement of the start of the flight of Mrs. Frances Grayson from Old Orchard, Me., to Denmark, until this afternoon was announced in a radio message received here early today by the Independent Radio Corporation.

The message stated that the postponement was due to the presence of low pressure areas off Newfoundland.

It had previously been announced that Mrs. Grayson would hop-off about 3 a. m. in her Sikorsky plane, "The Dawn."

Many Able Leaders Aid In State Convention Program

Dr. Chas. C. Ellis Makes Address

"Leadership Training" Is Discussed At Session This Afternoon

SPEAKER POINTS OUT CONDITIONS

In his address this afternoon, at the general cathedral conference session of the State Sabbath School Association convention, Dr. Charles Calvert Ellis, speaking on the theme, "Leadership Training," said among other things:

In any convention today, even in the local districts, it seems superfluous to do more than mention the need for leadership training in Christian education, and yet the very latest word from denominational leaders is that the appetite for such leadership has not yet manifested itself in many a local church, and the creating of this appetite according to several of them is "the next step" in leadership training.

If leadership training means the training of leaders both potential and actual it implies the existence of efficient trainers in sufficient number to accomplish the task, and when we face the facts we realize that this condition does not yet exist. In the first place, the coaching of leaders requires not only a degreeof patience but a degree of humility which the ordinary leader does not possess. Such coaches are no more common than good football coaches, but they have a task far more important, far less remunerative financially, and requiring a spiritual emphasis upon the best qualities of the man who inspires the football squad. This type of training is not a matter of listening to lectures in the training quarters, and eating at the training table, it means actual work on the field under expert supervision and coaching. There must be more of practical experience under guidance if our leadership training is to function less wastefully. We have learned this in our education of public school teachers, and we cannot stop short in Christian education of the best we know.

It is needless to suggest that as a basic condition for our training we must assume and assure Christian character. The fellow who is coached for the team should be of course a bona fide student of the college. "The man who points the way to heaven ought to travel that way sometimes himself." But beyond this, we shall some day doubtless find it possible to be more selective still upon the basis of ability as well as character. In the day when everywhere it will be counted a privilege to be entrusted with the leadership of youth it is certain there will be many more candidates "for the team."

Of one thing we may be certain—in the truest sense there are no diplomas in the school of Christian leadership, for the highest service we can render to those who are candidates for this leadership is, like the Greek pedagogue who led the Athenian boy to the school of the teacher, to lead them into the life long training of the Master Teacher. The daily prayer of him who would undertake thus to be a true pedagogue may well be that of the great Arnold of Rugby: "God grant that I labor with entire confidence in him and with none in myself without Him."

droning of conversation which if put into a composite sentence would probably be "what a remarkable convention."

None are too young or too old to help in this convention it seems. William Botham, a veteran Sabbath school worker in this city, whose years are many, is on the Assignment Committee and anybody who asks this old gentleman a question gets an answer quickly. And what he doesn't know he quickly finds out.

Rev. E. H. Bonsall got into the city at one o'clock this morning and seemed surprised to find a newspaper man in the lobby of The Castleton. "Rather late hours you keep" said this genial minister who is so well known here.

To his friends and they are numbered by the thousand, this reverend gentleman is known as "Bonny" and the term fits him nicely. Genial, always, enthusiastic and efficient he is the type of Sabbath school worker who is advancing the cause. He is in charge of the Young People's Department.

The State Publicity Chairman for the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association is not a newspaper man as you might expect. He is a banker, a candy manufacturer and a director in a college. By name, H. C. Heckerman of Bedford, Pa., and while he is not a newspaper man by profession he knows how to get along with the Fourth Estate.

PARADE ORDERS ARE ISSUED BY CHIEF OF POLICE

Parade To Move At 6:30 O'clock On Thursday Evening

Orders were issued today by Chief of Police Henry Dysart relative to the Adult Men's Bible Class parade, which will feature the annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association Thursday evening.

The parade will move promptly at 6:30 o'clock.

It will start to form at 6 p. m. on Jefferson street between Washington and Grant streets. On Falls street between Mercer and Beaver streets and an North street between Mercer and Beaver streets.

There will be no parking of motor or other vehicles on the above named streets before and during the departure of the parade.

No traffic will be allowed on these streets between 6 p. m. and until after the parade moves.

The route of the parade will be as follows: Jefferson street to Washington street, Washington street to County Line street, countermarch on Washington street to Mill street and on Mill street to the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Motorists are requested to pay attention to these regulations and assist the police and the Sabbath School Convention Officials in putting on the parade in the manner expected.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

One of the local delegates to the convention—a man who also plays a prominent part on the various committees—says that Tuesday night's registration was one of the largest pre-convention turn outs that he had ever seen, and he has been to quite a few of the meetings.

Even at eight o'clock Tuesday night, Lincoln avenue in front of the cathedral was almost impassable. Cars were banked up on both sides of the streets, and the cars, for the most part, belonged to out of the city people. We wonder what it will be like when the convention is going full blast.

Though they have worked at top speed and an extra force of men have been added, the city workmen could not get the paving on the Lincoln and Highland avenue intersections finished in time for the first day of the convention. More men will be added, though, and it is the hope of the city that the job will be finished before the delegates go back to their homes.

Tuesday evening as we came by The Castleton we noticed that many of the rooms were lighted, and it presented quite a contrast to the darkness which has hitherto been noticed at the corner of Mercer and Falls streets.

One of the wonderful advantages of the large number of entrances to the Scottish Rite Cathedral is being manifested during the convention. Registration was greatly expedited by using the various entrances. The doors were labelled according to alphabet, persons having names beginning with the first three or four letters of the alphabet entering at one and registering, those having names beginning with the next four or five, at another entrance, and so on.

One of the most heavily worked men of the convention, it seems, is General Secretary Walter E. Meyers. For most of the delegates and the officials, the convention had not started Tuesday, but Mr. Meyers and his staff were hard at work, laying plans and building foundations for the next year of the association. In all, there were two conferences of Mr. Meyers and his staff held yesterday at The Castleton, and another was to be held in the evening.

To show the delegates that even if they were not quite ready to open the hotel officially, the staff of bell hops at The Castleton donned their uniforms yesterday afternoon so that they might be picked out among the persons in the lobby. The new uniforms are blue with white striping down the seams of the trousers and around the cuffs of the coats. The words "American Hotels" corporation are embroidered on a shield, which has been sewn on the sleeves of the coats.

Many of the delegates from Lawrence county took advantage of the concession which was made to them and registered Tuesday afternoon and evening, thus securing the convention envelope and so that they would be prepared, and could enter the auditorium this morning without any of the usual preliminaries.

Standing upon the mezzanine floor of the Cathedral this morning looking down over the lobby, one was reminded of a beehive. Delegates, committee chairmen, workers, visitors, all buzzing around, and above it all a

Church Choir Big Feature

Several Hundred Local Singers Take Part In Convention

JOHN W. OWENS LEADING CHORUS

Music will play an important part in the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School convention which is under way at the present time in the Scottish Rite Cathedral. And because the convention is in New Castle where good music is traditional, it will be one of the high spots of the gathering.

The stage of the Cathedral, spacious as it is, is crowded with chairs for the chorus choir which will sing during the convention and room has been made for nearly 400 singers who will answer the baton of John W. Owens, the director-general of music of the convention.

New Castle has had many memorable choirs in the past twenty years but the one which will provide the music for this convention is going to take its place as one of the outstanding choirs in all the musical history of New Castle.

They have been rehearsed until they are as nearly letter perfect as one could expect such a huge chorus to be and when that enormous volume of sound swells out over the auditorium, the delegates and visitors are going to hear something that will be a pleasant memory when this convention has become history.

Third Time This City Has Been Host To S. S. Convention

While many people are of the opinion that this is the first time New Castle has ever had the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School convention, it is in reality the third time. Back in 1890 the convention was held here, when Rev. James Morrow, D. D., was the president. Again in 1911 the convention was held here when the late H. J. Heinz was president. This year it is being held here with Percy L. Craig the president.

First Guests Are Being Registered At The Castleton

Sabbath School Delegates Are Afforded Honor Of Opening New Hotel

A new page in hotel history was written Monday, when the first guests penned their names on the first sheet of the register of The Castleton.

B. A. McGarvey of Williamsport, field worker for the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, has the unique distinction of being the first person to write his name on the register of The Castleton, thus, as far as guests are concerned, opening the hotel.

After the name of Mr. McGarvey came those of T. E. Taylor of Philadelphia, L. Louis Abner of Scranton, Oliver P. Brown of New Castle, George W. Welburn of Philadelphia, J. C. McCauley and wife of Rochester, Pa., and Elsie G. Rodgers of Philadelphia.

But many who tried to inscribe their names on the register of the hotel found that it could not be done. Tuesday afternoon, while the convention delegates were registering, a man, by his looks, a traveling salesman, came in to the building and nonchalantly strode up to the desk, grabbed the pen from the waiting clerk's hand, and started to write. He almost got as far as the elevator before the clerk at the desk found that he was not a delegate to the convention, and then, politely, he was told that The Castleton would accept no guests other than delegates until after the formal opening, which occurrs October 27.

Tuesday morning the second sheet was brought out to the hotel desk, and the following persons registered: Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cridland of Pittsburgh, Anne Wharton Kinkaid of Philadelphia, Lynda A. Weber, Muriel McMay, Alice M. Zerby, all of Philadelphia, and Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Oliver of York, Pa.

CITY BUILDING

Convention Here To Break Many Former Records

Parade Will Move Promptly At 6:30 On Thursday Evening

Announcement was made today by W. A. Meyers, chief marshal for the Adult Division parade of men, on Thursday evening, in connection with the State Sabbath School convention being held in this city, to the effect that all plans are complete.

The parade will move promptly at 6:30 o'clock. There will be no banners carried in the parade, and the formation will be by county units, with the Lawrence county delegation in the rear of the procession.

Designation of places for formation will be made on the streets intersecting, and on North Jefferson street, north of the public square.

The Senior High School Band will head the parade, and there will also be other bands.

The parade will march from the public square to County Line street on Washington street, then counter march to Mill street, and move north to the Cathedral.

A mass meeting will be held in the Cathedral immediately after the parade and in the event overflow meetings are needed, the dining room of the Cathedral will be used, and also the Senior high school auditorium, which is nearby.

The parade is for men and boys, from the age of 15 years up.

It is anticipated that several thousand will be in line.

Convention Records Are Far Exceeded

opening hymn of such a gathering. Garth Edmundson presided at the console of the Greer Memorial organ. A number of gospel hymns were used in the song service which was held prior to the actual opening of the convention, and the music this morning seemed an augury of the outpouring of song that is to come.

Because of the hugeness of everything one can hardly appreciate what a magnificent job is being done. Hundreds of delegates come up to the doors of the Cathedral, and in a moment are swallowed up in the lobby, and a few moments later are given their credentials and are seated in the auditorium. Nothing is left to chance. Every one of the fifty-odd registrars know exactly what they are to do and are doing it with no waste motion, no unnecessary work and a minimum of confusion. It is a splendid piece of work and reflects upon the chairmen, T. A. Gilkey, and W. L. Pander, and the men and the men and women who are putting it over.

By Train and Automobile

This morning saw the bulk of the delegations getting into New Castle. All railroads leading into New Castle brought delegates from the various parts of the state, with the 10:21 and 10:43 trains on the Pennsylvania bringing many from the far east.

Counties within 100 miles seem to have used automobiles, and Mercer, Butler, Armstrong, Bradford, Crawford, Erie and the other counties within easy reach by concrete road reported hundreds by 11 o'clock.

The physical hugeness of the convention is impressive, but what is back of it all is almost beyond comprehension. The men and women who are delegates to this convention are representing the Sabbath schools of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and this state has one-eighth of the entire Sabbath school population of the United States. More, this state has one-twelfth of the entire Sabbath school population of the entire world, so that in viewing this 65th annual convention one must remember that this group of 3,500 or 4,000 men and women are here representing one-twelfth of the Sabbath school scholars of the entire civilized world.

It seems almost superfluous to say that this 65th annual convention of Sabbath school men and women will be a success. It has started off with such an impetus and in such a glowingly successful way that one is safe in saying that this convention will be a mark at which future conventions can aim.

Convention Opens

"The 65th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association will please come to order" were the words used by Percy L. Craig, president of the association when he called the largest convention of Sabbath school delegates ever to be assembled in Pennsylvania or any other state in the Union to order.

After a preliminary song service, led by John W. Owens, the meeting was turned over to Dr. Floyd W. Tompkins, who lead the devotionals.

We, all of us are prophets, was the keynote of the speech of Dr. Tompkins. It is our mission, he stated, to go out into the world and proclaim the faith of Christ Jesus to all of the peoples of all of the nations.

"God gives these things as tasks for the prophets of today," he went on. "First, we must see and teach the necessity of faith in Christ, necessity of faith in the Bible, the sacredness of the home. Then we must realize the necessity of right living, of righteousness, and finally, everyone must recognize the urgent need of world peace.

"Every man, woman and child of the Christian nations is an evangelist to all others who have not yet felt the saving grace of God. Everyone must have faith in Christ."

Denounces Atheism

Dr. Tompkins denounced the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, an organization which is incorported under the laws of New York and works in the schools and colleges throughout the United States.

"Read the first chapter of the gospel according to St. John," he urged. "There you will find that one must have faith in Jesus, the Christ, as God on earth.

"He was God on earth, just as He was man on earth. As both God and man, He knows all about human existence because He had actual experience.

"Christ is still on earth. He is still going about to comfort, cheer and help the unfortunates.

"And Christ has already conquered! But we must bring the erring back to Him with prayer, and not by the gun and the sword.

"Christ is ever present, reconciling the world to Himself. If one has faith in Christ, one should stand up for Him always. One should tell the story of His sacrifice and bring the faltering to His arms.

"We must have faith in Christ," Dr. Tomkins concluded. "We must love Him and consecrate ourselves to Him. As soon as we realize that we are His children, then we shall have the faith in Him for which He asks."

The assemblage of delegates were next led in prayer by Dr. Tomkins.

Delegates Stream In.

Immediately after the devotionals led by Dr. Tomkins, the doors of the auditorium were opened again and another vast stream of delegates began to take their seats. When the meeting was called to order, every seat on the main floor was filled, and the gallery was beginning to fill. At 10:15, just before the address of welcome was given, the first gallery was filled completely and delegates began to fringe the uppermost of the galleries. By the time that the keynote speech had been given, the upper gallery was almost full and many delegates were still in the lobby of the cathedral, registering and waiting to register.

Because Mayor William H. Dunlap was ill with a very bad cold and could not attend the convention to welcome the delegates from all over Pennsylvania, Robert M. Strickler, president of the Lawrence County Sabbath School association, made the address of welcome.

Address of Welcome.

"In 1916, when I attended my first convention in Pittsburgh," he stated, "I had a vision of another convention, a bigger and better convention, to be held in New Castle in the near future. Since then we have worked, and we are glad to see all the delegates from all the Sabbath schools in the state with us today.

"Now we are confident that we are entertaining the largest convention ever to be assembled in Pennsylvania. All the civic organizations of New Castle wanted to entertain the 65th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association, and I am sure that they are entertaining the biggest and best convention that ever yet has been held. I hope, though, in after years, other cities will make the convention even bigger and better than it is today, and I hope that in the near future the convention will be back in New Castle.

"So, in behalf of the city, the mayor, the city officials and the civic organizations of New Castle, I heartily welcome you to New Castle."

Given Ovation.

When he arose to make his welcome to the convention, Mr. Strickler received an ovation, all of the delegates getting to their feet and applauding. Mr. Strickler has been president of the Lawrence County Sabbath School association for several years and is general chairman of the local committees for the convention, being in charge of over 400 men and women.

Makes Response

James A. Lansing, of Scranton, chairman of the board of directors of the state association, made the speech, in response to Mr. Strickler's welcome.

"It is a proud moment when the convention comes to New Castle," he declared. "This is the largest gathering that I have seen in my 18 years on the board for the opening meeting.

"And, in behalf of the convention, I wish to thank the officials and organizations of New Castle for their welcome. That we are here shows how much we appreciate the courtesy which has been extended to us. We of the convention, sincerely thank New Castle for the honor.

"A no more fitting gathering can be assembled in this hall, which is so near dedication, than the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association. It is the largest Sabbath school organization in any state in the Union; larger than any organization of its kind in any province; larger than any Sabbath school association in any of the other nations. Pennsylvania leads the world!

"Again I wish to thank the city of New Castle for their kind invitation, and I wish to thank the delegates for responding with the largest convention that ever has been assembled."

Keynote Address

That the Sabbath school should be big enough to hold everyone, was the gist of the keynote speech delivered by Walter E. Myer, general secretary of the state association.

"Stoppage of mental growth is even worse than stoppage of physical growth," he said. "When one stops, he ceases to be useful. When one gets senile, he is a useless clod on the face of the earth.

"The same applies to the program of the Sabbath school. The program is not a series of stunts. A school cannot take a ready made program and adopt it. Programs should not be adopted, they should be adapted.

"Again, programs should be large enough. No one wishes to be identified with a small thing.

"Many things go to make up the successful program. Evangelism must be there. It must appeal to adults. The Sabbath school must be made a place of instruction, and the instruction must reach adults, for there are more adults in the Sabbath schools of Pennsylvania than there are children or young people.

"The program must be made large enough to reach into the homes, into the community, yes, even into the commonwealth.

"Build for years in advance," was the advice of Mr. Myers, "The program, as arranged, should cover a period of at least five years. And then, it should be elastic: it should be able to stretch to meet every contingency. It must meet the changing teachers and constituants.

"The work of the Christian people of the world is to make the church what Christ expects it to be. And to the church there is no greater asset than the youth of the nation; they will be leaders before we know it. And so as to fit them for the work in the church, there must be better lessons in the church school. Nothing should be stereotyped. Everything must be fresh. The best lesson that it is possible to produce is none too good for the little children.

"One of the Chief Justices of the United States Supreme court says that the biggest task that he is doing is teaching God's word to men and women in Sabbath schools.

"But you cannot do the work unless you are willing to think," was Mr. Myers' final exhortation. "The Sabbath school work must be made the main thing in your life. And it needs money. One cannot build a program without money to make it go.

"God, the master mechanic, may twist your life, he may make you a thing of ugliness, but in the end, with His help, the Master Mechanic of the Universe will make you an agency of usefulness to those in sin and bound up in darkness."

When Walter E. Myers, general secretary, had sounded the keynote of the convention in a masterly manner, the convention choir, with John W. Owens leading and Garth Edmundson at the pipe organ, rendered The Whole Wide World.

President Craig in Charge.

Percy L. Craig, president of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association, then assumed charge of the proceedings and called attention of the numerous delegates standing at the back of the first floor and first balcony that there were plenty of good seats in the second balcony.

He then announced the appointment of the committees on recommendations and resolutions and the place of next meeting. The committee on recommendations and resolutions as named by President Craig was as follows: J. O. Hertzler, Erie county, chairman; H. H. Cupp, Cambria county; Frank H. Steen, Fayette county; H. A. Reber, Schuylkill county; Rev. Walter Kennedy, Armstrong; Dr. A. Monroe Hall, Lycoming county; Miss Margaret B. Bull, Northampton county.

The committee named on the place of next meeting follows: S. W. Guthrie, Indiana county, chairman; J. Robert Homer, Luzerne county; Mrs. Sadie Swope, Franklin county; Warren G. Hoopes, Chester county; Ernest W. Kuebler, Dauphin county; Rev. Charles G. White, Blair county, and Merle Eberlin, Clarion county.

The selection of the committee on nominations was then taken up but not until President Craig suggested that he thought it was time that he be no longer considered for the position at the head of the association.

He then stated that he had planned as is customary to name Dr. Walter B. Greenway of Philadelphia, Pa., as the chairman of the committee and on behalf of the board of directors. Owing to the fact that Dr. Greenway was unable to be present, he named James A. Lansing of Scranton, Pa., chairman of the board of directors, as president. Later at the request of Mr. Lansing, he withdrew the appointment of Mr. Lansing and substituted Clifford S. Heinz of Pittsburgh as chairman of the committee.

He then called on nominations from the floor of the convention for the remaining members of the nominating committee. The persons named on this committee were F. W. Diehl of Montour county, William B. Ferguson of Butler county, H. Y. Yocum, Berks county William Lehman, Blair county; Robert M. Strickler Jr. of Lawrence county and E. B. Throckmorton of Green county.

Stating that H. W. Dietz of York, Pa., the recording secretary of the association for many years, was unable to be present at this time, he named Dr. M. Hadwin Fisher of Gettysburg, Pa., as recording secretary for this convention.

President Craig then called attention to the fact that every registered delegate to the convention was being presented with a copy of the Book of Prayers used by the late John Wanamaker during his life time through the courtesy and generosity of Rodman Wanamaker, a son. He asked that the delegates when they had time write the latter of their appreciation of the book.

Reads Wanamaker's Letter

The president then spoke of and read the letter of Rodman Wanamaker a telegram expressing the appreciation and love of the assemblage for him.

President Craig also presented a letter from Howard Heinz expressing his regret at his inability to be present and the convention again by unanimous vote instructed the secretary to send him a message of greeting.

He then spoke of the fact that he would have been pleased to have Mrs. John Y. Boyd, vice president of the board of directors, lead in prayer at that time, but that she was unable to be present owing to serious illness in her family. The convention instructed the secretary to send her a message of sympathy.

At this point President Craig called upon James A. Lansing of Scranton, Pa., chairman of the board of directors, to speak on the annual report of the board of directors. He referred to the printed report in the official handbook of the convention, which tells of the greater activities during the past year.

Chairman Lansing said that he would not go into detail but that he wished to tell of the co-operation afforded the board by the leaders of all denominations. He said that the board was enlarging its work to meet the needs of all denominations and that its program was the result of the efforts of leaders of all denominations. He said that the work of the board was being accorded the hearty co-operation of all those denominations. Meetings were held every month, he said, the members traveling thousands of miles and at their own expense. The ladies on the board were leading figures in their homes, home communities and were a great help. He stated the board was working for the people represented at the convention and hoped that it met with their approval. He said that the aim of the board was for the Glory of God and the spread of the Christian faith among the citizens of Pennsylvania.

The chairman of the educational committee was not present and President Craig referred to the printed report in the convention handbook.

The adoption of the convention as presented in printed form was then unanimously approved by the convention.

County Presidents Introduced.

County presidents in attendance at the convention were then invited by the president to the platform and quite a number in the audience came to the platform.

Members of the board of directors were then called upon to stand up and were presented to the convention. President Craig reported that he regreted that he was unable to present the new member of the board, Bishop William M. Bell, who was unable to be present owing to a meeting of his own denomination.

Among the members presented were James A. Lansing, the chairman; H. F. Paisley, the treasurer; Mrs. W. B. Easton, vice president; H. C. Heckerman, vice president; Prof. O. R. Myers, vice president; John E. Person vice president; Arthur Zuk, vice president; the Hon. J. W. Vickerman, director and others.

The members of the staff of the state association were then introduced by Walter E. Myers, general secretary.

The members of the staff introduced were Walter E. Myers, general secretary; Dr. George W. Wellburn, Christian Education; Miss Elsie G. Rodgers, Children's Division; Rev. E. H. Bonsall, Jr., young people's division; Miss Letitia Brown, associate in Young People's Division; H. C. Cridland, adult division; Rev. L. Louis Aber, school administration; Rev. C. A. Oliver, teacher training department; Mrs. C. A. Oliver, assistant Teachers' Training Department; B. A. McGarvey, field organization; Mrs. Frank J. Nash, Missions; Miss Kathryn S. Ober, temperance, and Anne Wharton Kinkaid, office superintendent.

President Craig stated on the presentation of the staff that it was the hope of the association that its numbers could be increased in the coming year.

At this time Mrs. W. P. Felch of this city was introduced and rendered the solo, "The Loving Shepherd," by Ambrose, with Mrs. Anne Moore Pyle as accompanist.

London Preacher Speaks

With every seat filled, the stage filled, and standing room at a premium in the spacious auditorium of the Scottish Rite Cathedral this morning, Dr. F. B. Meyer, noted London Divine, past president of the World's Sabbath School Association delivered the convention sermon.

It seemed appropriate that such an outstanding man should be chosen to deliver the convention sermon to this record breaking convention crowd. All previous marks have been washed away in the outpouring of delegates to this wonderful convention and the speaker was more than equal to the pleasant task assigned him.

Remarkable Old Man.

Dr. Meyer is not a young man in years. Father Time has counted more than 80 years over his head, but although the years have weakened his voice and bent his body, they have enriched his mind and out of a storehouse of experience he spoke to the men and women before him this morning. A remarkable old man, one whose words inspire and whose delivery is musical in its nature.

Because of his advanced years it was necessary for him to sit down as he addressed the audience before him, but his voice penetrated to every corner of the auditorium. There was no necessity to ask for quiet, for the benign demeanor of him, the wonderful flow of words, and the inspirational message they conveyed commanded a silence which was instinctive.

For his message he spoke on "The Law of Life and Growth,", taking his Biblical reference from Second Kings, 4th chapter and 34th verse. He opened by saying that perhaps some of his audience had felt that they had failed in their mission as Sabbath school teachers and failing, had wondered why.

In Touch With The Infinite

"The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord," he said. The Spirit is the true organ of Religion. If you have been touching only the intellect in your teaching then you have failed, because you must touch the level of the spirit."

It will be generally agreed that this Time-World is a reflection of the Etenral and Infinite. It resembles the shadow on the lake which reflects the mountains which enclose it. We may, therefore, take its incidents as typical of the eternal facts that lie behind. It is in this sense that we use this story. It is a copy of things in the Heavens. Much of the Bible may be treated from the same view-point. Elisha was evidently extremely addiduous in his pastoral and other efforts. He passed by continually! From his home on the Carmel slope, he was able to survey his wide parish, and was always accessible. When the children died the mother's heart turned to him. He sent first his servant to lay his staff on the child's face, and then went himself. The staff produced no result, but when he laid himself on the child he revived.

The lesson is obvious! There is a tendency in certain quarters to lay the main emphasis of Sunday school teaching and influence on the effect of a lesson which is an elaborate appeal to the mind of the scholars. Every available assistance of map, and custom, and history is focused on the elucidation and application of the subject, but too often the moral and intellectual result is disappointing. It is the phophet's staff, and we must consider together first the department of our nature which should be directly appealed to. Secondly, the most efficient method of making that appeal. Thirdly, the personal qualities which must be evoked in the teacher.

As he finished his address Dr. Meyer was greeted with an ovation that seemed to rock the very rafters of the building. It was the kind of a sermon that in itself was justification enough for attendance upon the convention and fortunate indeed were those who were present to hear it.

Who's Who Among Visitors

Few Facts Concerning Some Of Those In Attendance At State Sabbath School Convention Sessions

James A. Lansing, Scranton, Pa.—President of the Scranton stove works, has been a director of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association longer than any other director, and since Mr. Wanamaker's death, he has been chairman of the board and a worthy chairman he has been, seldom ever missing a board meeting and a man of keen judgement in connection with Sunday school work.

Is it any wonder that Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association prospers when big business men like Mr. Lansing will give so freely of their time towards guiding the destiny of the association?

H. C. Heckerman, Bedford, Pa.—The fifth vice president of the state association, has often said that if you want to get a thing done give it to a busy man and he will do it. And evidently he has learned that from practice, because in addition to having a large manufacturing plant of his own he is a banker, a director in college, member of a foreign mission board, fifth vice president of the state association, publicity chairman, and a member of the camp committee at Spruce Creek.

H. W. Deitz—Is the one fellow that you will almost always find on a convention platform while others come and go, Mr. Dtitz is generally there because he is the recording secretary of the state association and has been for a number of years. He has also been for quite some time secretary of the York County Sabbath School association.

As some one remarked at one of the recent conventions, pointing at him from the audience, said that, there is a man, that fellow Deitz up there is writing down history for our posterity.

Dr. Charles A. Oliver—Is pastor of the Presbyterian church of York. He has been for 27 years the very efficient teacher training superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School assication. He was recently honored by having an additional degree conferred by one of the colleges of his own denomination. It has been said of Dr. Oliver that he has done more for teacher training than any single individual in America.

Arthur Zuck—Is the manager of the Zuck greenhouses of Erie. He is one of the younger leaders in all religious enterprises in Erie. He is president of the board of trustees of the Erie County Sunday School association and was largely responsible for promoting the Camp Caledon project.

Frank H. Steen—Is vice president of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association, He is president of L. Steen & Sons, real estate and insurance, Belle Vernon, Pa. He is also president of one of the banks and director in two others. For many years Mr. Steen has been actively identified with the Sunday school movement. His father Leighty Steen was for many years a county official and at one time on the state board of directors. He is one of the foremost citizens of Belle Vernon and gives generously of his time and his money for every good cause.

Rev. E. H. Brewster—Is director of Christian education for the Methodist Episcopal church, Philadelphia conference, coming here from Maine where he served for several years very successfully as general secretary of the Maine Sunday School association. Dr. Brewster is a brilliant thinker, a fine platform speaker and thoroughly conversant with every phase of Christian education.

Mrs. G. M. Roat—Luzerne county, has occason to be proud. She is their secretary and has been on the job for them for quite a number of years and is still "continuing on." Second scretary of the first water and if we were to tell all the fine things about her in connection with her work there wouldn't be space enough in the paper to hold it.

Mrs. D. T. Foster—Of Greensburg, is the superintendent of the home and extension department of the Westmoreland County Sunday School association. Her department has received the highest rating of any department in the work in Westmoreland county at their recent great convention in Vandergrift.

Mrs. Nettie W. Ryle (Mrs. Reuben Ryle)—Is the very efficient superintendent of missions for the Monroe County Sunday Schol association. As such she has set a notable example in getting practically all the schools of her county to make contributions to missionary work and to have missions systematically taught at least monthly. She is the personification of missionary interests, being one of the foremost leaders in this particular field in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. P. M. Bullard—Is the very efficient general secretary of the Lycoming County Sunday School association. Her special interest in the missionary work of the Sunday School association. Her systematic plan of arranging a program on missionary interests for the various schools has drawn particular attention to her ability.

Bishop Wiliam M. Bell—is the senior bishop for the United Brethren church in America. He is an orator of exceptional ability, a very keen thinker and thoroughly modern in his vision of our task, but thoroughly orthodox in his theology. Bishop Bell has traveled widely, studied continuously and will make a rich contribution to the program.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

Officer Dave Nelson was on traffic duty in front of the cathedral this morning, and he wishes to make it known that no one will be permitted to park on Lincoln avenue in front of the cathedral at any time. This space must be kept clear for taxis and cars bearing the official insignia of the state association. This morning quite a few cars were tagged for non-observance of this rule, Mr. Nelson regrets to state, and he hopes that this evening and for the rest of the convention he will not have to tag any cars of the visiting delegates.

Here's a rather strange coincidence. Back in 1911 when the last convention was held here, Washington street was being paved. On the night of the big parade, a tar wagon on the Public Square was upset and caught fire, showering the marchers with sooty smoke. This time, Washington street again shows signs of improvement activity for the First National Bank of Lawrence County is erecting its new building and once again there is the smoke of industry pouring out over Washington street.

Mr. Heckerman was informed some weeks ago that Lawrence County would have at least 650 delegates at the convention he said, "they'll never do it." When he arrived at the Cathedral and found that Lawrence County had 1,600 delegates registered he said, "there never was a convention of the association where such a mark was established. It is almost unbelievable that a county would turn out so many registered delegates and the people here may be interested to know that this is far and beyond anything ever done before."

There is one chap working in this convention who will be seen but little but whose work is important. He is Jim Thompson, stage manager at the Cathedral. Jim has charge of the work back stage and if you happen to notice the smoothness of the stage workings, know that Jim is back there, busy.

Percy L. Craig, state president is all aglow today. He expected a good convention but he never in the world expected such an unprecedented one. It is a tribute of his home town neighbors to him and to say that he appreciates it is putting it mildly.

Walter E. Myers, state secretary has a job on his hands in this convention but he seems to be getting things done in his usual satisfactory manner.

Many of the delegates remarked upon the Welcome signs about the town. They pay big dividends in favorable publicity and if you haven't one out in front of your place of business, get one.

Before the first meeting of the association was called to order this morning, a singing service for the delegates who were already seated, was conducted by John W. Owens of New Castle, who is in charge of the singing for the entire convention.

As a special favor to Percy L. Craig, head of the state association, the singing services of the convention were started with his favorite hymn, "O How I Love Thy Law." United Presbyterians only sang the second verse, and their voices were quite as voluminous as was the whole convention.

In an aside on the platform this morning, President Craig declared that this, the 65th annual convention, was by far the largest that he had ever seen. New Castle people should be proud to have in their midst such an aggregation of representative citizens from all over the state.

Even at 9 o'clock this morning, delegates began to assemble in the auditorium for the opening services of the convention. At 9:30, the parquet was packed, and the first balcony was beginning to fill up. But, right after the keynote speech, delivered by General Secretary Walter E. Myers, the entire house was packed. Conservative estimates places the total attendance at 3,500 persons.

And even while all these were seated, many more were standing in the lobby of the cathedral, registering and waiting to register. Others were just arriving in the courtesy cars, provided by the citizens of New Castle for the convenience of the visiting delegates.

Something should be said about the work that is being done by Scout Executive J. Lee Calahan and his corps of boys. Everywhere at the cathedral, you find them dashing about, and doing more than their share of good turns.

Alfred W. Chilton, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was noticed at the cathedral wearing a ribbon which brands him as coming from Blair county. Why? everyone was asking.

Because of the unprecedented crowds at the Sabbath School convention, it is urged upon New Castle people who are not using their automobiles in the transporation of delegates that they use the street cars as much as possible and leave their cars at home.

For squares around the Cathedral there are cars parked and unless these cars are being used for transportation purposes, they are taking up valuable space.

Also, New Castle people who are not delegates are urged to give way to the delegates in getting into the auditorium for the sessions and thus insure every delegate a seat. After that, the seats can be used by New Castle people.

Stage settings at the Cathedral for the convention were appropriate. The scenery used was such as to give the place the appearance of a church interior. This fact was appreciated by the thousands of delegates.

Craig Suggests New President

Believes Time Here For New Man To Take Office, He Says

Percy L. Craig, of this city, president of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association for the ninth consecutive year, informed the convention this morning previous to the naming of the members of the nominating committee, that he thought it was time for a new person to be selected as the head of the association.

He said among other things "In previous years, I have made this statement after the nominating committee had been named. I am doing it this time previous to the naming of the committee. I think my many years in the office are enough. There are so many excellent persons available for the place, that I hope the convention will name a new president."

At this time, it is impossible to determine the sentiment of the naminating committee or the convention itself in the matter and it is probable that the choice of those having an opportunity of expressing themselves in the matter will not be known until Friday, when the selection is made.

GENERAL STAFF IN CONFERENCES

Several Meetings Of State Workers Held On Tuesday At "The Castleton"

That each session of the convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association will have assigned to it a member of the general staff to see that there will be no confusion and further to check up on the programs as outlined was decided at the Tuesday meeting of the general staff of the state association.

The meeting was a continuance of the Tuesday morning's meeting, at which dates were set for the summer camps and arrangements made for three of the members to be relieved so that they can attend the world convention, to be held next summer in Los Angeles, California.

The program of the convention will be carried out as fully as possible, averred Walter E. Meyers, general secretary of the State association after the meeting.

No new members were present at this second meeting of the staff.

Further details were worked out concerning the betterment of the Pennsylvania Herald, official organ of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association.

Overflow Meeting Is Likely Tonight

East Lodge Room Of Cathedral Will Be Used If Needed

Because of the crowd at the morning session of the Sabbath School convention today, it became apparent that an overflow meeting would be a necessity for tonight's program, and President Percy L. Craig immediately set about for such a meeting.

If the auditorium is crowded tonight as it undoubtedly will be, the East Lodge room of the Cathedral will be utilized and Dr. Charles Ellis will speak there, in addition to speaking in the auditorium. In order to provide a speaker for East Lodge room while Dr. Ellis is speaking in the auditorium, it is possible that Miss Margaret Slattery will speak there, providing she is so disposed. In the event that Miss Slattery can not be secured, Dr. Gage of Boston, will speak.

Philadelphia Likely To Get Next Convention

Philadelphia, Pa., will probably be selected as the convention city for the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association for 1928. While the city had not been chosen at press time this afternoon there appeared to be an overwhelming sentiment for the City of Brotherly Love and they will probably go home with the prize they sought.

Approximately 100 delegates are here from Philadelphia and they are urging that their city be the one delegates choose for 1928. The selection of Philadelphia would be in line with the policy of alternating between the east and west for convention sites.

Open Four Hotels During Two Weeks

American Hotels Corporation Is Opening Up New Hostelries

BELIEVE RECORDS ARE BEING BROKEN

"In two weeks time we are opening four hotels, a feat which, I believe, has never been accomplished before in hotel history," was the statement made this morning by one of the officials of the American Hotels corporation, who is in New Castle to see that everything is in readiness for the opening week of The Castleton, which will take place from October 22, when the contractors and newspapermen are to be given a banquet and last until October 26, when the formal opening dinner will take place.

The Necho Allen, at Pottsville, the General Ogkethorpe at Savannah, Georgia, The Castleton at New Castle, and the Anthony Wayne, are the hotels which this company will open in so short a space of time.

The best that the corporation has done so far, officials state, is opening two houses in two weeks time, but with the present rush, this will be doubled.

Chef W. E. Litton of the Reed House at Chattonoga, Tennessee, was in New Castle yesterday afternoon and inspected the kitchen of the new hotel. Surprised, he stated, "the kitchen of The Castleton is one of the best arranged and finest equipped that I have ever had the privelege to inspect. There is no reason why the cusine here should not be the best in Pennsylvania."

Because of the convention, the lobby of The Castleton is in use and delegates who are stopping at the hotel express surprise at the lavishness of the decorations.

Acid Scalp

How many carefully coiffured heads can stand the test of eyes only inches away, and reveal not a speck of dandruff? How many women can warm to the dance, and know their hair will have no taint for the partner who holds them close?

No one can be sure who has acid scalp.

If you even suspect this acid condition of the scalp, it is time for Danderine. This scientific preparation will neutralize any acidity; and dissolve all dandruff if there is any. And it always gives the hair itself a lovely softness and sheen. It will wave better, hold a wave longer, and behave better all the time if you just occasionally apply a few drops of Danderine. Try it! Every drugstore has this perfect conditioner of the scalp and hair, and a thirty-five cent bottle lasts for weeks.

He was technically correct, but what a time for it!

Moreover, mindful that there was a topic he could discuss, "The American policy is reciprocity," he announced, "and this is it. They go down, we go down. They go up, we go up."

Now it's France's turn.

POLITICIANS FIGHT SHY OF PROHIBITION

Do Not Relish Injection Of Subject Into Political Campaigns

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—To say that the average politician, with a campaign coming on, wants the subject of prohibition left strictly alone, surely can't be interpreted as implying bias either way. Everybody must have noticed it.

That being agreed, I do say so. The average politician is as afraid of the subject of prohibition as he is of smallpox.

All politicians aren't average. A few are dead sure their constituencies are wet. They're manful wets. A few are dry. They're courageous drys. About 75 per cent are doubtful. When anybody mentions prohibition, their reactions are the same as the reactions of a man who can't swim when some crazy dub rocks the boat.

Imagine the average politician's feelings, then, when Seymour Lowman took over Dry Czar Andrews' job some time ago, and immediately set up a loud prohibition cackle, which the press proceeded to broadcast for all it was worth.

Lowman's superiors hastily begged him to be more discreet. Lowman talked on. His superiors warned him in stronger terms. Lowman only got worse. He's one of those chatty people who can't stop.

So finally they gagged him. They forbade him to refer to prohibition, publicly or privately, directly or indirectly, in writing or by word of mouth, to answer a question, to utter a word—on that subject. "If you must talk," they said, rather rudely, "talk about something else."

Now we turn to the subject of the tariff row between this country and France.

France, it will be recalled, recently boosted her duties on certain goods she'd previously been importing from us. It was an evident jab at America, for we were the only folks the increase applied to. It amounted to an invitation to England, Germany and others to compete us out of the French market.

The state department protested to the Paris government.

"If you'll make some tariff reductions for our benefit," rejoined the Paris government, "we'll make some for yours. We believe in reciprocity, all right."

"Much to our regret," explained the state department, "the American tariff system doesn't permit reciprocity. We treat all alike."

That was the nub of our argument. "We can't reciprocate under our law—we treat all alike." If the French could punch any holes in that proposition, they'd have us foul; but we reckoned they couldn't do it.

Generally speaking, the state department was quite right, but there are a few commodities to which we apply the "countervailing" principle. That is, if others make tariff concessions to us on those few particular lines, we return the compliment. If others advance their rates against us, we advance ours against them.

It sounds a bit like reciprocity, but there are not enough such commodities to signify much—about a dozen. The state department had forgotten all about them.

Trust Seymour Lowman not to forget!

As assistant secretary of the treasury, it's his job to look after those "countervailing" duties, as well as to enforce the dry law.

Without notifying anybody in advance, he issued the necessary order making the prescribed "countervailing' tariff increases against France.

Special Service At Nazarene Church

Preparatory Service For The Coming Revival Meetings To Begin October 14

There will be a special mid-week service at the Church of the Nazarene, W. Falls and Beaver streets, this evening at 7:30. This meeting will be in the form of a preparation service for the coming revival meetings to begin this Friday evening, October 14th to 30th. Rev. J. E. and Ada Redmon of Indianapolis, Ind., are to be the special evangelists for this campaign. Both Mr. and Mrs. Redmon are preachers of the Gospel and they will alternate in preaching. They also sing together and will give special numbers at each of the services. The meetings will be held every night at 7:30 except Saturdays and on Sundays, 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The orchestra and also the double mixed quartet and the men's quartet will give various selections from time to time during the meetings.

The program this evening will be local. The opening selection will be given by the orchestra, "Hallelujah", a sacred overture by Lewis. Singing by the congregation and prayer. A special number will be given by the double mixed quartet, "Arise," by Strickland. Offertory, "The Trumpeters March" by Wheeler, played by the orchestra. Rev. Rowe will preach on the subject, "Alibis."

Thursday evening is to be set aside by the members and friends of the church for home prayer meetings by each individual in their own homes. It will be designated as the "Secret Closet Prayer Meeting Night."

A hospital is a place where a person's condition usually is "satisfactory."

There isn't any wild west any more, so just where is a young man supposed to go?

Dull Teeth

Now Made Dazzling White

Tender Gums

Firmed ... Made Coral-Like

This New Way Does Wonders Quickly. Noted Dentists Urge It. Accept 10-Day Tube Free!

SCIENCE has made important discoveries in restoring "off-color" teeth to clear whiteness, and in firming tender gums. One's whole appearance may be quickly changed.

Most tooth ugliness (as to color) now is traced to a film that forms on teeth. You can feel it with your tongue—a slippery sort of coating.

That film absorbs discolorations, breeds bacteria, invites tooth decay and gum troubles. Old-type dentifrices failed to combat it successfully.

That's why your teeth are now off color. Clear it off, and you'll be amazed at what white teeth you have.

High dental authorities urge a new-type, film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent . . . different from all others. You feel that film coat go. Beautiful color and high polish come.

All druggists sell Pepsodent in large tubes. Or send coupon for test free. Do this now.

Auto Accidents Tuesday Night

Two automobile accidents of a minor character were reported to the police Tuesday night. In neither case was the damage great or any person injured.

Ed Houston of 23 West Falls street, reported that he was driving scuth on Croton avenue when an automobile bearing Pennsylvania license 485-010 going in the same direction failed to give a signal of the the intention to stop and when this machine stopped. Mr. Houston ran into the rear of the other car slightly damaging the spare tire on the rear of that machine.

S. E. Smith of 126 West North street, reported that he was driving north on Croton avenue and turning around in the middle of Croton avenue in front of the Bratz service station when his machine hit and damaged a car bearing Pennsylvania licene 3-125.

As a result of his recent tournament victories Wilbur Marx 16 year old high school boy of Eau Claire, Wis., has been proclaimed the world's log-rolling champion.

Would Permit Cannon To Be Fired At Plane

Aviator Would Demonstrate Improvement In Warfare Since Revolution

(International News Service)

YORK, Pa., Oct. 12.—To demonstrate the rapid strides made in the art of warfare since Revolutionary times, Lieut. M. R. George, army bombing expert, has offered to fly in circles within a half block of a cannon used in the Revolutionary War, while a gunner fires the aged weapon at him.

"He'd never tsrike the plane," says Lieutenant George. "And if by accident one of the balls hit the fusilage or wings the damage would be slight." The cannon is less dangerous by far than one of the small machine guns carried by individual marksmen during the recent war, the officer says.

The Revolutionary "Big Bertha" could be fired at a mark the size of the dirigible Los Angeles from a distance of two city blocks and fail to strike its mark, according to authorities.

The cannon, used during the Revolution, was made at the Michael Egecharciol furnace at Boiling Springs, Cumberland county and is on exhibition during the York Sesquecentennial this week.

REASONS WHY SOME PAVEMENTS FAIL—

and how a brick surface prevents that costly failure

You've seen it happen. A pavement recently laid. Perhaps not yet paid for. But—going to pieces, running up repair costs.

Why did it fail? Perhaps the base was not strong enough. But, more likely, the surface did not provide protection for the base. When that happens, modern traffic is not long in hammering the pavement into premature wreckage.

Paving brick, being vitrified, does not absorb water. Laid on any good base, with a sand cushion, and bound together with asphalt, a brick surface keeps all water out. And, furthermore, has sufficient "give"—resilience—to protect the base from the jolting punishment of heavy traffic.

Brick is the toughest wearing-surface man makes. Also it is level, easy-riding, safe and easy on the eyes. In dollars of cost per year, records prove brick the cheapest of all pavement. In value it is the highest type of paving material known.

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago.

Toy Orchestra Gives Program

Features Institute Session Program During Afternoon

Children of the third grade enthused the teachers at the annual county institute at the Shenango Township consolidated school this afternoon when the Shenango-Taylor Toy orchestra was presented to the institute.

Josephine Marino and Wanda Oodzinski, two little girls of nine years of age with a wand led some 20 boys and girls of their own age as they, with tambourines, drums, triangles, blocks and bells, accompanied the Victrola through the strains of "Travatore" and the "Parade of Wooden Soldiers."

This interesting orchestra, which was started last year, is this year under the direction of Miss Edna Neal, teacher of music at the Shenango-Taylor joint school. The kiddies have been in training this fall for only three weeks and are all of the third grade of the school. In almost perfect time they accompanied the selections on their little instruments and the teachers of the institute gave them great applause.

Mrs. Edith Eckles, principal of the Shenango-Taylor school, says that most of the children were in the orchestra last year and appeared before audiences. This year they use more difficult pieces than they did last year.

Miss Neal in introducing the orchestra said there were three purposes she had in mind in training these little ones in the toy orchestra. First, to develope unity of time and rhythm and an understanding of such things in the tiny minds. Second, the development of concentration as they watched and followed the music and their leader, and third, cooperation, for each knows that he must cooperate with every other member of the orchestra and with the leader in order to make the production a success.

The personnel of the orchestra is as follows:

Tambourines—Charles Taylor, Deloris Schweikert, Carrie Frengel, Elizabeth Yoho, Marvin Fligger, Andrew Kovalick and Grace Pallerino.

Drums and triangles—Mike Vendammia, August Pallerino and Raymond Vendeminian.

Bells—Philomena Parrota, Patsy Dando, Patsy Bulisco, Steve Mazur.

Blocks—Donald Crudell, Joe Trimble, Joe Kovalick, Anna Tumis, Rosa DeCarlo, Katie Banko, Victoria Gruca. The leaders were Josephine Marino and Wanda Obodzinski.

Work Is Delayed By War Department

County commissioners say that work on the proposed county bridge at Wampum is at a standstill awaiting approval by the war department. It has now been more than a year since the project was started but owing to delays by state and national officials nothing seems to be accomplished. It is hardly likely now that any actual work will be done by the present board of county commissioners.

Six Non-Union Miners Injured In Auto Crash

Charge Union Miners Forced Machine From Road, Plunges Down Hillside

(International News Service)

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Oct. 12.—Six non-union miners today are at the Ohio Valley hospital at Wheeling, W. Va., recovering from injuries sustained late Tuesday when the auto in which they were riding to the provident mine, crashed over an embankment.

The men reported to Sheriff Hardesty that they were being transported from Cleveland, and that a group of union miners met them north of here and attempted to deter the men, by verbal argument, from going to the mine.

Near St. Clairsville, the men said, the car with the union miners passed them and turned in sharply in front of their machine forcing the driver to leave the road. Sixteen non-union men were being transported from Cleveland, in two autos, at the time of the accident. The wrecked auto was the second.

The injured men registered as: James Mozens, 45; Forrest McDowell, 49; Dan Fonosky, 49; Charles Bush, 32; Frank Rebar, 52, and Frank Weber. All gave Cleveland as their place of residence.

Pratt Randall, driver of the ambulance which conveyed the men to Wheeling, reported he was shot at while returning to St. Clairsville.

Fire Damages Residence In New Wilmington

Blaze This Morning At Home Of Constable William Dresch

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 12—Tolling out at 1:30 this morning the New Wilmington fire bell announced a fire at the home of William Dresch of East Neshannock avenue.

The fire which did not do much damage in itself was easily put out after it had gutted most of the bathroom on the second floor of the house. It is believed that the conflagration started in a closet in the bathroom but the primary cause is not known.

Considerable damage was done however in the attempt to stop the spread of the fire as great holes were ripped in the side of the house. No official estimate was put on the amount of damage but some put it at several hundred dollars.

Of the crowd that collected in front of the Dresch home at 1:30, most of them were college boys who, remembering the experience of last January when "Old Main" burned, jumped out of bed at the first cry of the bell.

Start Movement To End Strike Of Ohio Miners

(International News Service)

BELLAIRE, O., Oct. 12. —Negotiations have been started to end the Ohio mine strike, it was learned here today, with the receipt of a letter to the Ohio Mine Operators' Association from the state miners union requesting a conference.

It is understood the miners want the strike ended on the same terms as accepted in the Illinois, Indiana and other union districts.

John Cinque, president of subdistrict 5, of district 6, comprising Eastern Ohio, predicted negotiations for a settlement of the strike would be instituted within a few days.

of speed of the plane, however, as computed from the position given by the American Banker in its wireless message last night, indicates that more than 38 hours will be needed for the flight.

The fliers elected to follow the steamer route instead of the great circle course which Colonel Lindbergh followed on his trail-blazing flight. The former route adds several hundred miles to the flight, but Missi Elder and Haldeman figured they would benefit by the presence of steamers beneath them along the path of the flight.

Weather conditions across the Atlantic are regarded as far from favorable, but the air over the French coast is clear and the visibility expected to be excellent, once the ocean hop has been completed.

Thaw Heirs Are Given Sums From Big Coke Trust

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—Harry K. Thaw, and his two sisters each were awarded $152,645.04 today in the distribution of $1,598,775.20, three years income from a coke trust created under the terms of the will of their father, the late William Thaw. Twelve other descendants received an equal sum.

The coke trust was created by Thaw's parent to provide an income for his children throughout their life time. At the death of any, the proceeds of the trust is distributed among the next kin.

An accounting is made in Orphans Court here every three years, under the provisions of the trust agreement and the sum divided today was one of the regular accounting periods.

Mother Of Girl Flier Suffers From Breakdown

Mrs. Sarah Elder, Mother Of Intrepid Girl Aviatrix, Confined To Bed

(International News Service)

ANNISTON, Ala., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Sarah Elder, mother of Ruth Elder, the intrepid aviatrix who is attempting the Atlantic, was reported in bed today, suffering from a nervous breakdown brought about by worry over her daughter.

Members of the family said Mrs. Elder was prostrated when she learned last night that Ruth had hopped off. A physician was summoned, and Mrs. Elder has been under medical attention since.

The girl flyer's mother had sought for weeks to dissuade her from the venture. Telegrams, and letters were added to personal appeal, but in vain. The mother, however, was hopeful to the last that Ruth would give up the perilous project.

"But if she does go," Mrs. Elder told friends a few days ago, "I hope the people of the nation will pray that she may make the shores of Europe in safety."

Some girls smile because they have a sense of humor; others because they have dimples.

Two Are Injured As Bleachers At Grid Game Topple

(International News Service)

BELMONT, Mass., Oct. 12. — Five hundred men, women and children were thrown into a panic and two were seriously injured when the wooden stand on the high school field here collapsed today during a football game between Belmont high and Punchard high of Andover, Mass.

Cries of the injured mingled with the cracking of the timbers and boards as the stand folded up.

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 12.—The Argo of 1929 is getting well started on its yearly cruise, anchor was weighed last Saturday. The announcement is now forthcoming of the staff assignment positions of the members of the editorial and art staffs for this year's work. The staff follows: Literary Editor, Helen Winters of Coraopolis; Sports Editor, Irving Mansell of New Wilmington; Activities Editor, Margaret Young of New Castle; Snap Editor, Ross Ellis of Jamestown, Pa.; Fraternity Editor, Margaret Adams of Pittsburgh; Senior Editor, Harriett Jolley of Claysville; Junior Editor, Elizabeth Edeburn of Sharon; Chronologist, Margaret Lennig of New Castle; Ass't Literary Editor, Dorothy Wray of Sharon; Ass't Snap Editor, Frances Loehner of New Castle; Ass't Chronologist, Margaret Sampson of West Finley, Pa.

The work is proceeding under the direction of James McQuiston of Cochranton, the editor-in-chief.

Work Continues

Despite the recent death of Kenneth E. Smith, formerly senior partner of Smith and Bauman Co., constructing the new college administration building here, the work is now progressing rapidly.

With the entire completion of the walls up as far as the second story of the structure and laying of the second story floors, it is expected that "Old Main" Memorial will be well on its way toward completion before winter weather halts general construction.

Send Delegates

In response to an invitation tendered by Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, through its departments of chemistry and psychology to Westminster College proffering the privelege of sending representatives of these two departments to the dedication of the new Wittenberg Chemistry-Psychology building, October 21, Professor J. Phi Delta Chi Sorority of Westminster College announces the pledging of Miss Emma Elizabeth Ferrall of Canton, Ohio, and Miss Sue F. Bryson of Oakmont, Pa. Both girls are members of the class of 1930.

New Castle girls who are members of this sorority and who are prominent in college affairs are: Miss Evelyn Winger, Miss Lois Reeher, Miss Frances Bleakley, Miss Margaret Guy.

The Kappa Phi Lambda Fraternity announces the pledging of Gibson Armstrong, class of 1930.

Daughter Marries

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Klumph of New Wilmington announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gladys Louise Klumph to James G. McKelvey of Ligonier, Pa.

Miss Klumph is a Westminster student, and James McKelvey is a Westminster graduate of the class of 1927, and a member of the Kappa Phi Lambda Fraternity.

Former Student Married

From word received here Saturday, it was learned that Robert Richard Patterson of Turtle Creek, Pa., a popular member of the Junior class of Westminster has been married since 1924. When Patterson failed to return to college following a visit away over the week-end, the news of his marriage was learned.

Mr. Patterson is residing in Cleveland, O. He is known to the people of New Wilmington as a member of the Delta Phi Sigma Fraternity.

Speaks at Institute

Leaving here early Thursday morning, Dr. Charles A. Dawson, head of the English department at Westminster, will journey to Greenville, where he will speak at the afternoon session of the Mercer county teachers institute.

In his address to the Mercer county teachers, Dr. Dawson will follow the subject, "The American Story." Dr. Dawson is well known in Western Pennsylvania both as an English scholar of note and a leader of European travel expeditions.

If you envy a man's righteousness, the only chance is to become a cynic and scorn him.

THE NEWS, BY MAIL, ONE YEAR $5.00

That 4-hour morning grind! How do you prepare for it?

Workers who are keen, alert and energetic all through the morning have an immense advantage. Because nation-wide investigations among big business organizations (public utility plants, wholesale houses, and many others) show that 70% of the world's important work is compressed into the four morning hours.

To carry you through these top-speed, high-pressure hours, you must have a good, sustaining breakfast. A breakfast of balanced nourishment, to provide quickly-available, long-lasting energy.

Because it "stands by" you through the morning a breakfast of Mother's Oats makes a real difference in how you feel during your most important working period. Oatmeal provides energy and tissue-building materials in better proportion than any other cereal It is rich in minerals, too—and vitamins—and tender bran, so valuable for roughage. For flavor, Quick Mother's Oats has been the choice of critical families for over fifty years. Skill in milling made the difference.

Start tomorrow to have Quick Mother's Oats breakfasts for a week. See how much longer your morning vigor is sustained!

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

You see all the road when you drive a Buick

The dreaded "blind spot" is gone forever! In Buick for 1928 closed car front posts are narrowed so that all the road, ahead of you and at the side, is clear.

What a factor this is for safety! What extra pleasure it gives to driving! How it relieves city traffic problems—the sudden rush of a child . . . the unexpected appearance of a car at a corner . . . the negotiating of turns in crowded places!

And, thanks to the efficiency of Fisher craftsmanship, these slim corner posts have even greater strength than the type formerly used.

See a Buick for 1928 at the nearest showroom. Get behind the wheel and prove for yourself how clearly you can see all the road from the driver's seat.

President Coolidge Founders Day Guest

Will Make The Principal Address Thursday At Carnegie Tech Celebration

By CARL L. TURNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12. — Pittsburgh's great arms of steel will be opened wide to welcome to its heart the President and Mrs. Coolidge who will be guests of honor at the Carnegie Institute of Technology Founder's Day here on Oct. 13.

Ambitious plans are being formulated for the President's entertainment during his brief stay in Pittsburgh. He will be here only for about fifteen hours, according to Washington advices.

Arriving early in the morning on a special train with his executive staff and a party of newspapermen who keep a constant vigil over the Chief Executive whenever he is away from the Capital, Mr. Coolidge will be taken to the historic blockhouse at the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers. After a brief rest at the home of Secretary of the Treasury, A. W. Mellon.

His visit to the blockhouse, on the site of old Fort Pitt, will be merely one of inspection and there will be no ceremonies connected with it. From there he will ride in state through the downtown district to the Carnegie Institute.

In addition to the corps of secret service men who always are on guard against acts of violence against a president, police reserves will line the route of the Presidential party. A police escort on motorcycles will precede him.

In the forenoon the President will inspect the Institute and at noon, according to tentative plans, he and Mrs. Coolidge will be luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mellon in the Mellon mansion.

Once before the President attended Founders' Day ceremonies at the Institute. This was in April, 1921, but at that time he was Vice President, acting in the absence of President Warren G. Harding.

It will be the third time a President in office has honored the occasion with his presence. President William McKinley attended in 1897, and in 1910 it was President William Howard Taft.

Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson also were Founders' Day guests, but at the time neither was President. Cleveland had retired from office and Wilson was President of Princeton.

A few hours after he finishes speaking, President Coolidge will board his private car and make the return trip to Washington.

Keep Stomach Young!

Eat What You Want

When the food you eat goes into your acid-soaked stomach, it sours and can't digest, makes foul gas and sour bile. The blood takes these poisonous acids and carries them through the body. Naturally it makes you miserable and despondent, because your system is not nourished—you lose weight.

Pape's Diapepsin dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach. It digests the food; no more sour bile is taken up by the blood. Your appetite is like a youngster's again, and gradually you get back your health, flesh and energy.

Chew a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin after meals. It tastes good, and relieves the misery of indigestion in five minutes. It will keep your stomach young and vigorous so you can eat anything you want without being afraid of the consequences.

Mrs. Chas. Greer Will Be Honored

Two Trees Will Be Planted In Honor Of Federated Clubs Head On Tuesday

Honoring Mrs. Charles Greer, for 12 years president of the Federation of Women's Clubs in this city, two trees will be planted upon the Public Square, Tuesday, October 18, with representatives of each club in the Federation present.

The service will be an impressive one and is open to the public. Several speakers will be on the program. The idea of planting trees to honor individuals is gaining ground throughout the United States for such a method does two things. It provides a lasting testimonial to the individual and provides a thing of beauty for the city. It is a pretty honor to Mrs. Greer and one that is well deserved.

The tree planting will be under the supervision of the Lawrence County Garden Club, a unit of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Flo Ziegfeld and George White found out long ago that girls are better kickers than boys. This picture of Lelia Barwick is proof of their discovery. She plays fullback on the football team of the Woodbury Hall School for Girls, Atlanta.

It would be nice, however, if the Department of Agriculture would tell everybody when to sell short.

RADIO DEALERS ELECT OFFICERS

James E. Morehead Elected As President Of Radio Dealers Association

At a meeting of the Radio Dealers' Association, held at the Witherow Electric company on Tuesday night, election of officers for the ensuing year was the main event of the evening.

The following officers were selected to head the organization: President, James E. Morehead; vice president, John B. Waddington; secretary-treasurer, Harry T. Lee.

After the election of the officers, plans were discussed for making this season one of the high points in radio, with bigger and better programs and better broadcasting, also new improvements in radio receivers and equipment. Plans for a radio show to be held in the Scottish Rite cathedral next month were accepted and if negotiations now under way materialize, New Castle will have an opportunity of hearing and seeing many of the most noted radio artists.

A committee on memberships was appointed consisting of: Chairman, Louis C. Matheus; Rex Patch, John B. Waddington and Hartzell J. Huston.

The following firms were represented last night: Pennsylvania Radio Manufacturing company, Elliott-Waddington, G. H. Walters company, Cripps Hardware Co., M. & D. Radio shop, Kirk-Hutton company, J. H. Perleman company, Stewart P. Foltz, Witherow Electric company, Gilfillan Electric company and Huston Hardware company.

The next meeting of the association will be held on Monday night, October 24, at 8 o'clock at the office of Elliott-Waddington company on N. Jefferson street. All out-of-town dealers located in Lawrence county are invited to attend the meeting and officiate with the organization.

Obregon Given Big Reception

By LELAND C. LEWIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NOGALES SONORA, Mexico, Oct. 12.—General Alvaro Obregon, one time president of Mexico, and avowed candidate for re-election, was given a tumultuous welcome when he reached this border town today.

Military and civil authorities combined to prevent any possible demonstration of hostility in the crowd that milled about the railroad station and nearby plaza.

There's More to This than Health!

Cleans So Thoroughly, Even Perspiration Can't Offend

All the trick laxatives in the world can't tempt people who understand the properties of cascara.

A hundred different drugs will purge the bowels, but a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew!

Your grandparents took "salts," and slowly washed away the mucous membrane with the waste! Mineral oils are better, but they leave the coating that your blood must then carry off through the pores. But when you cascarize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

Don't get in the habit of taking medicine for constipation—or even for autointoxication. If you have the habit, stop it. A candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them and the taste tempts most grown-ups to take "more." And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight! All druggists, 10c & 25c.

"EXCITEMENT used to cause such acidity in my system that everyone around me was conscious of it—even outdoors. It was a lucky day I found the sweetening effects of the candy laxative—

Find Owner For Strange Animal Caught On Farm

The strange animal captured in the cornfield of Wesley Gormley by his son Dewitt Gormley and on exhibit at the window of the C. Ed Smith Hardware company has an owner, according to the information given the police last night.

The animal escaped from the owner whose home is Brockway and who had a concession at the New Castle fair.

He received the animal from Brownsville, Tex., two days before the fair came to a close. He was unable to locate it after its arrival.

A native of the far south the animal, an Armadillo, has evidently determined to make the most of its freedom and in spite of the cooler weather conditions prevailing here was getting along famously when captured, being in the act of making a meal on the corn of the Gormley farm when made a prisoner.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste", a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Highways Must Be Made Larger

Will Be 2,500,000 Motor Vehicles In State In Few Years Is Forecast

By CLYDE SHUE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—Plans for the ultimate right of way on the major state highways are being filed with the county commissioners now because of the anticipation of future traffic needs, James L. Stuart, secretary of highways said today.

Stuart said that in some cases county authorities do not understand why such plans are being filed nor what the ultimate purpose of the department is.

The secretary cited past expansion in the registration of motor vehicles to support his statement that in ten years there will be 2,500,000 registrations in Pennsylvania.

Before the arrival of that number of registrations he asserted, Pennsylvania's main highways must be broad enough to bear three and four times the amount of traffic they are now carrying.

Filing of plans for roads ultimately will be from 80 to 120 feet is being done to prevent unnecessary encroachment near the main arteries of traffic. After filing of the plans persons who build within the strip which the state sets aside will have difficulty in obtaining damages when the roads are widened.

Previous to January, 1927, ultimate right of way drawings on seven projects totaling some 52 miles have been completed and recorded in the county offices. Since that time 71 projects totalling more than 600 miles had been recorded. At the present time there are about 35 projects with more than 210 miles of highway of which plans have been completed and the final approval and recording will be done at once.

Including these projects a total program of 2,600 miles is in the process of development. This work will continue until all the main highways of the state have been covered.

STATE PRESIDENT CRAIG FETES STATE AND LOCAL LEADERS

First Banquet In New Hotel At Noon Today

President Percy L. Craig Entertains State Staff And Others

NEARLY 200 GUESTS ATTEND BANQUET

At noon today the first luncheon of The Castleton was served, when Percy L. Craig, State President of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association was host to the directors of the state association, county presidents, state association staff, and a few invited guests.

In all about 175 were present and while Mr. Craig and the State Association can feel proud of the fact that they opened the dining service of The Castleton, John A. Slack, manager of the new hotel can accept it as a personal triumph, for no meal could have been served under many more handicaps and been the success it was.

The kitchen equipment was not nearly all set up, there was no flat silver, no table linen or towels, and yet inside of the past eighteen hours Mr. Slack borrowed enough silver to serve the meal, wired various hotels of the American Hotels Company and borrowed linen and when the guests sat down at noon today every one was served promptly, the meal was most delicious and the guests were delighted.

Mr. Craig Chairman

To Mr. Craig the meal must have been a cause for real satisfaction for gathered about the banquet board with him were some of the best known Sabbath School workers in the world, leaders of the State of Pennsylvania and a number of prominent citizens of New Castle.

Following the service of the meal Mr. Craig called upon Dr. F. B. Meyer, of London, formerly World President, Dr. Samuel Price, secretary of the World Association, and H. E. Paisley, treasurer of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, all of whom responded with short addresses.

He then introduced the Board of Directors, and Robert M. Strickler, president of the Lawrence County association. Mr. Strickler then introduced the 25 committee men and women of this county back of the convention.

Member Of State Association Staff From Ellwood City

Among the members of the state staff of the Pennsylvana State Sabbath School association it is interesting to know that one of them, Miss Letitia Brown is from Ellwood City.

Miss Brown replaced Miss Esther I. Williams who was associate superintendent of Young People, working with Rev. E. H. Bonsall. Miss Williams resigned to accept the post of secretary of the Hollidaysburg Y. W. C. A. and Miss Brown was elected as her successor.

And while Lawrence county people may well be proud of this efficient young lady she is no less delighted with the fact that her home county is coming through with what is now conceded to be by far the best convention ever held in this state.

OIL DRILLER IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 12.—William E. Pipher aged 59 contractor and oil driller of Parker is in the Butler hospital with a fractured skull sustained when the friction pulley on the sand reel of drilling machinery exploded on a lease about six miles north of Parker. His condition is serious.

When the wheel exploded a piece of metal flew across the floor of the derrick house and struck Pipher in the forehead rendering him unconscious. He was found by workers nearby and brought to the hospital.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

The Castleton dining room, or rather, ball room, was in use for the first time today when Percy L. Craig, state head, gave a luncheon to the directors, county presidents, the state association staff, and a few other personally invited guests. J. C. Brooks, genial headwaiter of The Castleton, presided over the ceremonies and stated that it was about the fiftieth convention banquet that he has had the pleasure of serving.

Among the prominent persons who have arrived at The Castleton today are:—Mr. and Mrs. J. Kirkwood Craig of Pittsburgh, the Hon. Charles Steele of Northumberland, Pa., Dr. F. B. Meyer of London, England, Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Tomlinson of Philadelphia, Roy A. Burkhart of Chicago, Elizabeth Harris of New York city, Carl F. Espenshade of Bedford, Prof. O. R. Meyers of Juniata college, Huntingdon, Samuel D. Price of New York city, Mrs. A. B. vanOrmer of Huntingdon, and F. A. Robinson of Toronto, Canada.

We saw the signature of Dr. F. B. Meyer of London, England, this morning on the register of The Castleton, and for penmanship, it certainly beats the writing of some of the delegates who could safely call him grandfather. Dr. Meyer is over 80 years of age, but his penmanship looks like that of a youth of 20.

Many delegates to the convention did not understand that they were not to enter the auditorium of the cathedral while Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins was conducting his devotional services, and quite a few times they were interrupted by persons entering the hall. Dr. Tomkins wants it to be understood that he would much rather that the late comers remain outside of the auditorium while he is conducting devotionals, because he does not like to be interrupted.

"Well, we are here, and I guess that shows New Castle and its citizenry how much we appreciate the kindness that they have bestowed upon us by inviting us to have our 65th annual convention in their city," declared James A. Lansing of Scranton, chairman of the board of directors of the state association in greeting to the assembly at the cathedral this morning. This is the 18th convention that Mr. Lansing has attended in an official capacity and he states that it is the largest.

The man behind the scenes in this convention—one that you hear very little about—is Robert M. Strickler, President of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association. For three years he has been working constantly to get the 1927 convention of the state association in New Castle, and he is walking about now with rather a proud look on his face, for he has accomplished what he set out to do.

An unusual sight. Cars actually parked on the steep grade of North Mercer street by delegates to the State Sabbath School convention. In fact there were cars parked wherever you looked within blocks of the convention place.

Congested traffic on Lincoln avenue was pronounced this morning, especially about eleven o'clock. Cars were unable to move at but a snail's pace at best, owing to the many cars convention bound.

Everybody in the city seems to be in the spirit of co-operation for this Sabbath School convention. Early today, the Lincoln sedan of Fred L. Rentz, which was in use hauling delegates, skidded into the curb on East street, breaking a wheel.

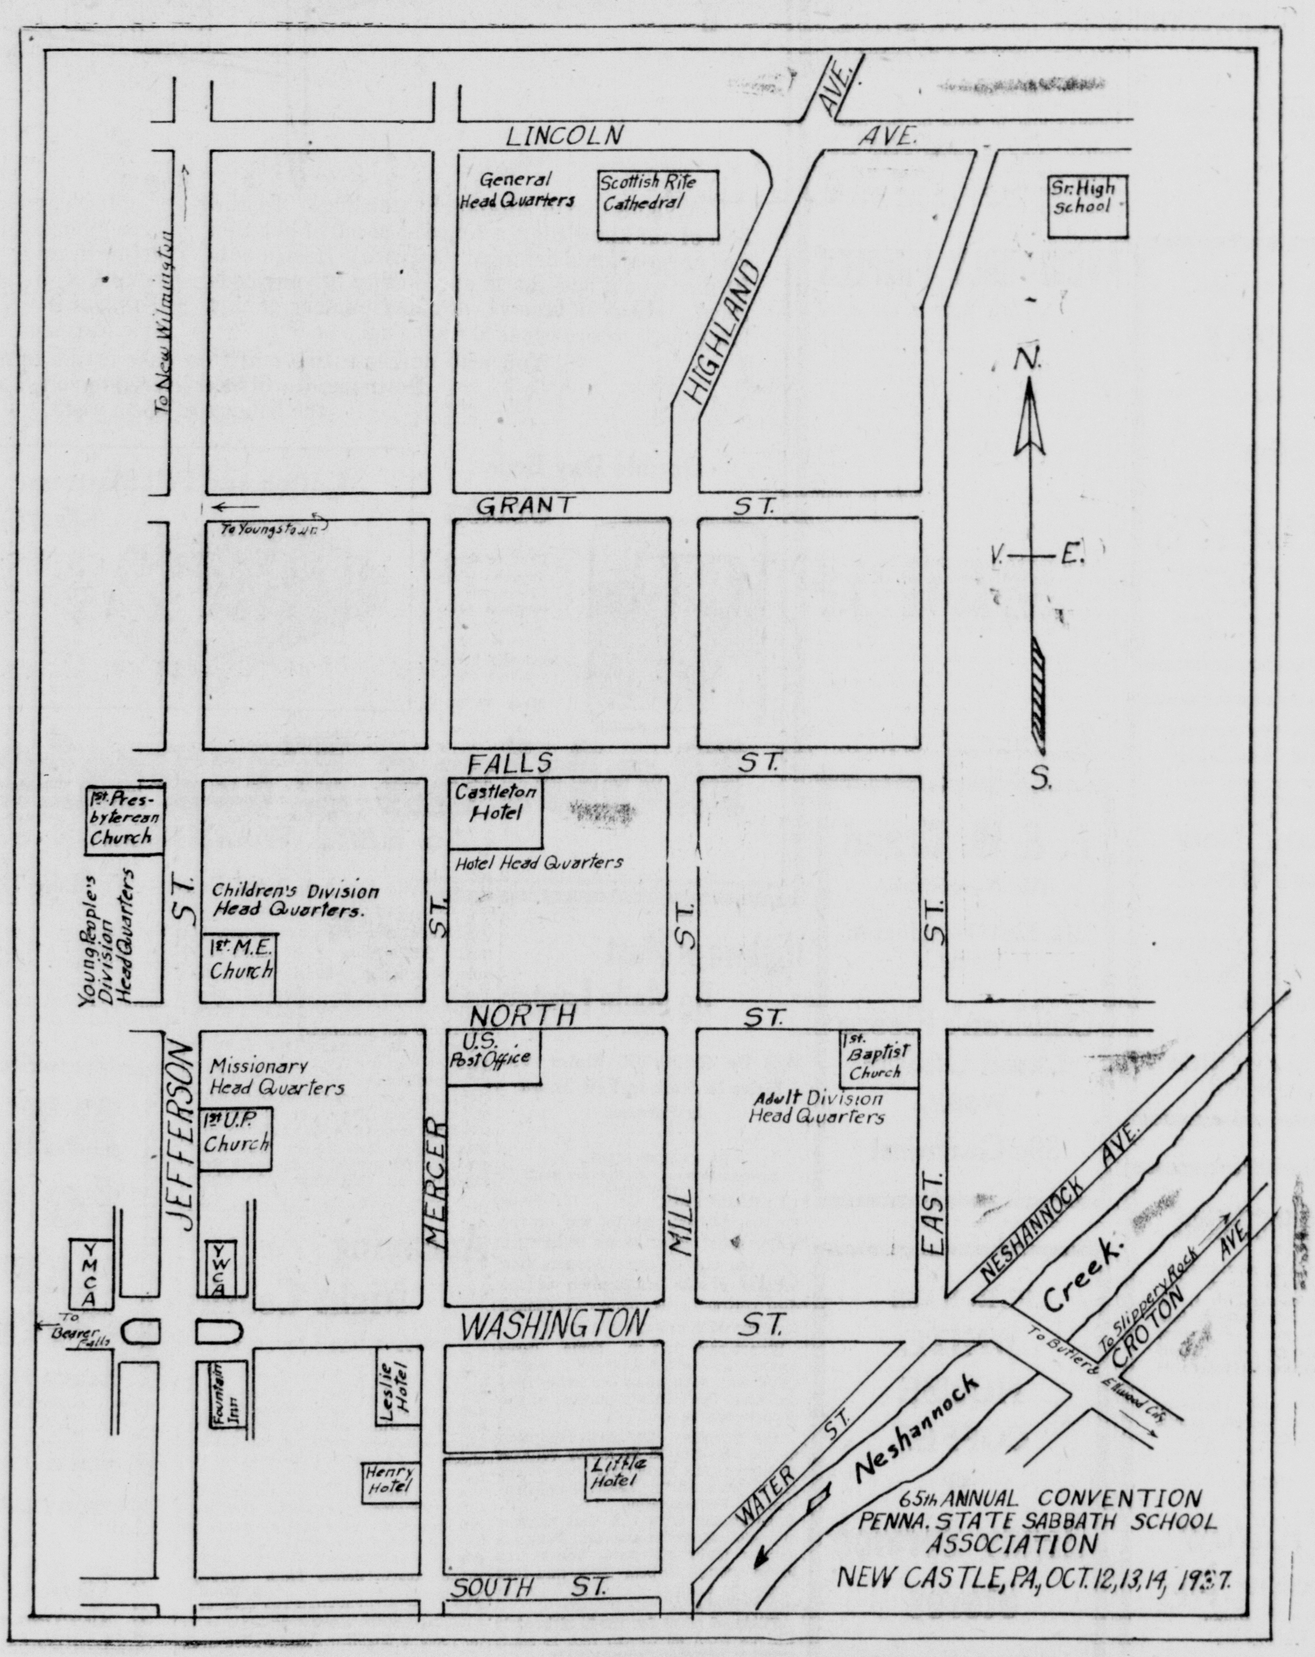
In a short time four or five garage men of the city offered to drop everything to get the car fixed and inside of an hour and a half the broken wheel was replaced and the car was in service again.

The reception committee of Fred L. Rentz was on the job receiving visitors and delegates and by tonight most of them will have sore hands from shaking hands.

HUNTER, 99, SHOT BY HIS OWN GUN

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 12.—H. B. Hammock, who celebrated his ninety-ninth birthday by going on a hunting trip to Rutledge, near here, was wounded by the accidental discharge of a shotgun. His grandson, Earl Watson, also received wounds. Both will recover, physicians said. Watson fell over a log and his gun was discharged.

How To Locate Various Convention Headquarters



Tried To Talk Ruth Elder Out Of Flight Plans

Wheeling Backers Of "American Girl" Considerably Worried

WATCH REPORTS OF PLANE'S PROGRESS

(International News Service)

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 12.—"She made up her mind and, being a woman, kept it made up," declared Joseph D. Holloway, steel magnate and one of the backers of Ruth Elder in the trans-Atlantic flight of the monoplane "American Girl," today. He said he and his associates tried to dissuade the plucky aviatrix from risking her life in a gamble that already has taken a heavy toll, but she would not listen.

"We didn't want her to go after what has happened," said Holloway, "but now that she has taken off we wish her Godspeed and hope she reaches Paris. She is a brave girl.

"Her take-off at this time, in face of disaster that others have met, looks exceedingly daring to those of us who supported her in the purchase of her plane and the expense of her flight, but we couldn't convince Miss Elder of that.

"She made up her mind and, being a woman, kept it made up."

Originally the flight was intended to be known as the "Wheeling-to-Paris" hop, said Holloway, but later it was decided to christen the monoplane "American Girl" in recognition of the bravery of "every American girl."

J. D. Merriman, another backer and banker, explained that the group who financed the flight wants no personal glory out of it. "We did it for Wheeling, where we were born and reared," he said.

Many groups of Wheelingites joined in prayer today for the safety of the "American Girl," who was believed to be somewhere out over the middle of the Atlantic ocean.

Skeptical Over Claim Of New Channel Record

Doubt Time Claim By London Woman Doctor In Swimming English Channel

(International News Service)

BOULOGNE, France, Oct. 12.—Skepticism began to develop today over the claim of Dr. Dorothy Cochrane Logan of London (Mona McClennan) that she had established a new women's record for English Channel swimming by making the channel swim in 13 hours and 10 minutes. Gertrude Ederle of New York had set the original record of 14 hours and 34 minutes.

Old-timers of the water fronts of Boulogne and Cape Gris Nez, the favorite starting point for channel swimmers, were greatly surprised to read of Dr. Logan's claim of a record swim.

"Bill" Burgess, who swam the channel in 1911 in 21 hours and 35 minutes, was openly doubtful.

Engineers To Wrestle With Flood Problem

Best Technical Knowledge In America Will Discuss Mississippi River Control

CIVIL ENGINEERS OPEN CONVENTION

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 12.—The searchlight of the best technical knowledge in America was to be turned on the century-old problem of Mississippi river floods here today, as the American Society of Civil Engineers opened its Fall convention.

The majority of the convention's four-day session was devoted to a study of the flood control question, with particular attention to the Mississippi. The first official surveys of the 1927 flood—the most disastrous in the history of the Father of Waters—were to be made available to the delegates at the outset, when Maj. Gen. Edwin Jadwin, chief of army engineers, in whose care the flood problem has been entrusted for years, opens the technical discussions with a complete resume of the Mississippi problem. Gen. Jadwin's address was scheduled for 2:30 p. m. The closest secrecy was maintained by all speakers, particularly those attached to the army engineering staff and the other official bodies who deal with the Mississippi flood question, no intimation of the contents of their addressed being divulged in advance of delivery.

Gen. Jadwin was to be followed at this afternoon's session by Col. C. McD. Townsend, U. S. A., retired, of New Orleans, at the river's mouth.

Levine To Start Ocean Air Lines

Returning To America With Plans For Establishing Ocean Air Lines

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 12.—Charles A. Levine, the first trans-Atlantic air passenger in history, is returning to America, after four and a half months abroad, with matured plans for establishment of a regular trans-ocean air service.

Levine believes that his plans can be carried out within a year, but the service will at first be devoted to freight and mails principally, with passenger business coming along later as the service becomes more stabilized and is recognized as safe.

"The type of ship we plan to use is a huge seven-motored plane capable of developing 6,000 horse-power," Levine told the International News Service. "Five of the motors would run at the same time, the other pair being in reserve. This would afford a maximum of safety and stability and with such a ship I believe we could carry letters at about 50 cents each with 48 hours delivery.

"Engineers are following me shortly with complete plans and we intend to start work immediately."

Levine plans to stay in the commercial aeroplane business and says he will construct his own plant in the vicinity of New York for the construction of commercial planes.

American air equipment is as good as anything in Europe, Levine believes.

Levine also has in mind plans for an aerial passenger line between New York and Florida on a 15-hour schedule.

RECORD EGG GOES TO COOLIDGE TABLE

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 12.—A "record" egg, packed carefully in a jewel case, was sent by air mail to President Coolidge last night.

A telegram, asking the president to have it served for his breakfast Thursday, preceded the egg, which was the 160th laid by Lady Norfolk, prize leghorn, in as many days.

State Acts To Bar Opening Of Deposit Vault

Michigan Officials Will Not Allow Remus To Open Safety Deposit Box

DODGE DENIES REMUS' CHARGES

(International News Service)

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 12. — This state will not permit George Remus or anyone representing him to remove the contents of any safety deposit box that may have been rented by Imogene Remus, the wife he killed, Ralph Hughes, chief public administrator, declared today.

Hughes said that if Mrs. Remus left $1,800,000 in a safety deposit box within the state there is inheritance tax amounting to approximately $100,000 standing as a first lien on it. In case the bank permitted removal of the contents of the box, Hughes said, the bank would be liable to the state for the full amount of the tax.

Although officials of the American State Savings Bank, where Remus claims the safe deposit box is held in his wife's name, refuse to discuss the matter, and although Franklin Dodge, named by Remus as co-respondent, insists that Mrs. Remus was never in Lansing, the opinion spreads here there was such a safety deposit box.

Say Contents Moved

Rumors in Lansing are to the effect that Mrs. Remus was here within the last month and removed the contents of a safety deposit box. These rumors can be traced back to customers of the bank, who refuse to permit their names to be used, but insist that they identify the woman they saw here with photographs of Mrs. Remus published since her death.

Dodge sticks to the main outlines of his denial of all Remus' charges. He says that if Mrs. Remus was ever in Lansing it was merely to pass through in an automobile and that he never saw her here.

He repeats his claim that he never met her, except when Remus sent her to him for help, until after the bootlegger had filed his second cross bill to his wife's divorce petition, naming Dodge as co-respondent. After that time he met her several times in Cleveland, Dodge says, in connection with the gathering of evidence to refute Remus' charges.

Dodge has a voluminous file of affidavits and other evidence in connection with his own work during the nine years that he was an investigator of the United States Department of Justice. In this file are many complimentary letters from Federal officials and one from Remus.

Bowery Asks Return Of Captain Austin, The Girl Who Smiles

CAPTAIN ISABELLA AUSTIN.

By ALEXANDER C. HERMAN.
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

DOVER, N. J., Oct 12.—The eyes with the smile that set the Bowery blinking are exercising their charm here.

The effect is not as high-lighted as it was on the street that once was just a human gutter. For this placid little town geographically near New York seems far removed from the slums of even the redeemed Bowery.

The work is easier. But Captain Isabella Austin of the Salvation Army would rather be with her "boys" on the Bowery.

"Boys' Want Her Back.

And they—even the toughest of them—want her back.

They want her badly enough to voice their claim in public assemblage, duly recorded in long labored effort in signed petition bearing more than 200 names.

"We, the undersigned, wish to make it known that we want Isabella Austin to stay on the Bowery. She did a lot for us while she was here, and we do not want to lose her."

But lose her they did—for the 'soldiers of the Lord" must obey their army orders. And Miss Austin then a lieutenant, in the course of her training, had to be moved.

"Angel of the Bums."

She had been on the Bowery only 10 months. But in that time this girl of 20 had become "angel of the bums."

"Never have I found a man on the Bowery who was not a gentleman" she says.

Her face must be an open reflection of her heart. And the toughest in their most sordid moments caught its appeal.

When she played "Home Sweet Home" on her cornet, eyes that were bloodshot softened, and tears came from the eyes that had forgotten how to cry.

Never was she molested—although she is strikingly attractive and often had to go alone in the dark through the toughest part of the city.

Miss Austin joined the army when she was 8. When her parents died she lived with an uncle in the Bronx. As soon as she was old enough she enrolled in one of the army's training schools.

She has never been further away from New York than the places of her assignments—once to Staten Island and now to this, and neighboring New Jersey towns. She has no wish for the commonplace things reveled in by other girls of her age—movies, dances, fine clothes.

She finds her best times in her work.

Seventh Ward

Bible Class Meets Tuesday Evening

Monthly Meeting Takes Place; Other News Notes Of Seventh Ward

Tuesday evening members of the Loyal Workers Bible class of the Madison Avenue Christian church were entertained at the monthly social meeting of the class at the home of the class teacher, J. F. Edmunds, N. Liberty street. Twelve members were present. Rev. W. W. Sniff was a special guest.

During the evening a short business meeting meeting was conducted after which the evening was spent socially with music, games and chat. At the business meeting Mrs. E. N. Jones, the assistant secretary, was named secretary and will take the place of Miss Blanche Robinson, secretary, who is leaving soon to work in Youngstown.

At a seasonable hour delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. J. F. Edmunds and daughter, Miss Louise Edmunds.

PLAN TUREEN DINNER

The committee in charge of the plans for the ladies auxiliary to Order of Railroad Conductors tureen dinner had a meeting, at which time it was decided to have the dinner on October 20. "CHALK TALK" AT SCHOOL

At the Mahoning school Tuesday morning Grant Waddell, a cartoonist, gave a chalk talk, which greatly interested the school pupils. The program was presented by Mr. Waddell in the interest of the art department of the school. Mr. Waddell drew a number of faces, taking the letters of the alphabet and making them into faces and drew scenery and other things. The program was for the junior high pupils and they surely enjoyed Mr. Waddell's chalk talk. Mr. Waddell is a former teacher in the city schools.

John G. Fisher of West Madison avenue has been quite ill at his home the past several days.

Mrs. Hannah Evans of West Madison avenue is recovering after an illness.

PICK APPLE BLOSSOMS

Various kinds of flowers and blossoms are picked at certain times during the seasons, but it isn't often that apple blossoms can be picked in October.

But this is so, last Sunday, Hiram and William Pitzer of the seventh ward motored to Enon Valley and near there on a farm where no one is living at the present time they picked apple blossoms from a tree, from which they state they picked some apples and ate during the month of August. They state the tree was about half full of blossoms.

The Messrs. Pitzer brought a bouquet of the blossoms home with them and took them to the Anna Reed restaurant on Liberty street. What is left of the bouquet is still there, but many people coming to the restaurant wanted a blossom or a twig that the bouquet has gradually grown smaller.

HAS GUEST

Mrs. Laura Powell of Pittsburgh, Pa., is visiting at the home of Mrs. C. P. McFadden of Newell avenue.

The modern bicycle-wheeled sulky used in light harness racing weighs about 29 pounds, or only one-third as much as the weight of the old high wheeled sulky.

Firemen Give Excellent Demonstration Tuesday

Make Run Of Six Blocks, Connect Hose And Turn Water On In Two Minutes And 33 Seconds

Give Generous Display Of Fire Apparatus And Do Stunts On Same

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—In connection with the annual fire prevention week the local fire department conducted a demonstration yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the fire department building, showing their skill in putting out fires, connecting apparatus and saving lives.

As an added feature two girls took part in the demonstration, showing that women have to be saved as well as men and bravely jumped into the waiting net.

One feature worth mentioning was the run of six blocks with the hose, connecting it and showering water over the top of a two story frame building all in two minutes and 33 seconds.

Tuesday morning mills and factories were inspected for fire hazards, and a fire drill was conducted in the Lincoln Juinor high school.

Tonight a big parade will be a main attraction of the week's activities. It will start at 8 o'clock from the fire department building and will be led by C .A. Martin as marshal and the Shelby band. The following companies will form a part of the parade: New Castle, Aliquippa, Koppel, Beaver, Rochester and Patterson Heights.

There will be prizes for the best appearing company and for the one coming the longest distance. After the parade the men at the local fire house wil serve a buffet lunch to the visitors.

Young Women Hear India Missionary

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—Twenty-five members of the Young Women's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church met last night at the home of Mrs. H. W. Smith on Second street for their monthly meeting.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Holsipple, a returned missionary from India, who gave a most interesting discourse on that country, its habits, customs of Christianity and related a personal experience of a young Indian girl who was so desirous of obtaining an education that she fought her parents and all her relations, and now is happily studying in one of the mission schools.

Concluding the meeting was a social period and delicious refreshments were served by the following committee: Mrs. Alfred Baker, Miss Marguerite Dambach and Miss Sara Aiken.

BERNICE WILSON SCOUTS MEET

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—A good representation of the members attended the regular weekly meeting of the Bernice Wilson Girl Scout troop which took place last evening at the home of Mrs. H. E. King, patrol leader in Ewing Park.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Leftover meat may be deviled and made decidedly appetizing. Do you remember in Dickens' "David Copperfield", how David invites the Micawbers and Tommy Traddles to dinner and the mutton not being done, it was "deviled" under Mr. Micawber's direction? And how good it tasted! Much the same kind of thing is done in the recipe following:

Deviled Meat Lyonnaise Potatoes
Combination Salad
Fresh Apple Pie Tea

TODAY'S RECIPES

Deviled Meat—Make a batter of a tablespoonful of English mustard, three of flour, two beaten eggs, salt, cayenne, a teaspoonful of olive oil and a scant tablespoonful of vinegar. Cut any kind of cold meat in slices, soak it in this batter and fry a golden brown in hot shortening. Pour what remains into a cupful of hot milk or broth, beat in a tablespoonful of butter, heat through and pour over the meat.

Lyonnaise Potatoes—Fry one medium sized onion sliced thin in two or three tablespoons of fat until a light brown. Add two cups sliced (or diced) cooked potatoes a dash of salt and one of pepper. Cover pan and cook slowly until brown (10 to 15 minutes). Vinegar, one-half to one cup, may be added just before the cooking is finished, if desired.

Marinate—To let material lie in a brine, a pickle or French dressing to bring out the flavor.

SUGGESTIONS

Child's Quilt

An attractive covering for a quilt for a child's bed is composed of pages cut from three or four linen fast-color story books, alternating the squares with blocks of plain white or cream-colored linen. It will always be fascinating to the youngster who owns it.

Preparedness

You need not wait until the last minute to mix up the dough for hot biscuits. Mix them in the morning and keep them in an ice box until ready to bake.

Pastry Hint

Generous use of shortening and sparing use of water gives the best results in making pie crust.

HEAVY-BODIED -RICH- FULL-BODIED

When you use American Beauty you use the full triple strength malt extract—not watered—not adulterated—with no artificial flavoring or coloring.

AMERICAN BEAUTY is the product of the very finest hops and malt—the best ingredients that money can buy. AMERICAN BEAUTY has long been known as "The finest malt on earth." Insist on this better brand next time you buy.

New Castle High School Gridders Observe Rigid Training

FACE HEAVY PROGRAM IN NEXT THREE WEEKS

Dayton Steele, South High, Youngstown, And Peabody To Be Played In Succession

High Football Team Fortunate In Regards To Injuries This Year

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Faced with the prospect of playing three major games within the next few weeks, the New Castle High football team is entered upon a rigid period. The first of the three hard games for the locals comes on Saturday when the team tackles Dayton Steele, at Ben Franklin Field.

Dayton Steele, Youngstown South and Peabody High of Pittsburgh in the order named are no small task for the local gridders, yet the schedule makers have decreed that the "dish be served" and Chef Bridenbaugh is doing his level best to see that the order is carried out. With a squad of some 30 willing workers, the task is not as gigantic as it seems at first glance.

If New Castle High comes through with victories in every one of the next three games, then the populace will have something to talk about. There are not many High School teams in this section capable of tackling such an array on successive Saturdays. There are no breathing spells anywhere. The only "breather" will be the Swissvale game set for November 5. The Swissvale team is a new comer to the locals schedule and is not expected to cause much trouble.

Scoring Machine

New Castle High has a powerful scoring machine this year, and it is going to take a mighty fine eleven to stop their mad rush for schoolboy honors, that's saying quite a lot, especially before the real tests of the year, but on the strength of their showing in the first four games of the card, the writer cannot help leaning just a little to one side of the boat.

A tabulation of the first four games of the season, Grove City, Mars, Donora and Franklin High shows that New Castle High has scored a total of 161 points against 6 for their opponents. The Franklin High team after a series of forward passes succeeded in denting the red and black line for the only touchdown of the year against them.

In ten games played in 1926 the locals tallied but 221 points aganst 25 for their opponents, which goes to prove the statement concerning the scoring system is just about correct.

Line Is Strong

Not all of the credit goes to the backfield men in the passing out of the glory, were it not for the fact that New Castle High has a mighty forward line, the backfield men could not negotiate in such a "reckless" manner. You can't drive a team of mules through a stone-wall, but you can drive a team of mules through an opening that is big enough, and that's just what the New Castle line is doing this season, opening gaping holes in the enemy lines and allowing the "ball-toters" free passage.

Out at the New Castle High football camp this fall the biggest worry to Coach Bridenbaugh and his official staff was the formation of a line capable of supporting his veteran backfield, with the loss of such well known boys as Robinson, Millison, Christman, and McGarth, the task looked almost beyond the fondest hopes, but the material reported and out of the ragged bunch of "rookies" has sprung one of the best lines of recent years.

Coach Bridenbaugh excused the gridders on Monday afternoon, for the reason that he thought they needed a rest. Tuesday afternoon it was a different proposition and the boys were sent through a drill that lasted the best part of two-hours. Another strenuous session is on the books for today and another for Thursday. Friday will be light with only a touch of signals.

To Arrive Friday

The Dayton Steele team will reach this city early Friday afternoon, according to word received here by Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and will quarter at a local hotel. It is not expected that many Dayton Steele students will make the trip to this city, as the distance is rather far to negotiate for a one-day outing.

Gardner announced today that the admission for the Dayton Steele game would be 50 cents instead of a dollar as originally planned to charge for this major attraction.

The Dayton team will be in fighting mood when they take the field against the locals, due to the fact that they were defeated by Erie Academy High last week by a score of 26 to 0. They feel that they must get revenge for this sudden and unexpected setback and the fact that they are going to play another Western Pennsylvania team this week adds all the more to their bitterness.

Unless the writer has suffered a sudden softening of the brain, and at that most anything can happen, especially after the late World's Series debacle, then the fans of this man's fair domain are due to witness a football game Saturday that borders on the collegiate flavor.

New Wilmington High Preparing For Sandy Lake

Clash Takes Place At Sandy Lake On Next Saturday

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 12. — After three days rest, Coach Wiggins began determined practice sessions again yesterday for the tilt with the Sandy Lake eleven at Sandy Lake this Saturday.

Despite the fact that Sandy Lake lost to Rochester 62-0 last Saturday, Wiggins is taking no chances in letting up on the training grind and he expects to have the college town team in fine shape for Saturday's game.

Captain Don Davis and "Whitey" Herriott, star fullback who was hurt in the Sharon game, both reported for practice today and it is expected that with Davis on his end much of the defensive weakness in the Blue and Gold outfit will be patched up. Second to Herriott in weight, Davis is one of the speediest men on the squad.

EMMETT ROCCO DEFEATS SEIFERT IN TEN ROUNDS

By ED. FRITZ

YOUNGSTOWN, Oct. 12.—Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City, at Rayen-Wood auditorium, last night, defeated Sandy Seifert, Pittsburgh, in what was probably the greatest 10-round battle heavyweights have ever staged in Youngstown. Seifert tested all the qualification of the Ellwood City heavyweight and in doing so Seifert took a beating, especially in the ninth and tenth when he was stung, distressed and staggered, and Rocco lost a knockout because he could not connect a soporific to a vulnerable spot.

Seifert, the better boxer, showed to advantage at long range and when Rocco tried to meet the Pittsburgh lad at his own game Seifert excelled. But when Rocco got in close and fought to the stomach and broke through Seifert's guard wih blows to the jaw he punished the Pittsburgher. Rocco had Seifert staggering in the ninth from blows to the jaw but Sandy did not go down but weaved, ducked and tied Rocco up when hurt. Seifert took lots of punishment in the tenth but his worse inning was the preceding chapter.

Rocco took the first, second, third, sixth, eighth, ninth and tenth rounds while Seifert won the fifth and seventh. The fourth was even. In the forst three rounds it appeared as though Rocco would drop him but Sandy came back and fought Emmett even in the fourth and took the fifth. Rocco took the sixth by a shade while Seifert captured the next round by a slim margin. After this session Rocco forged ahead but the long grind had sapped some of his punching power and when the opportunity came in the ninth he could not land on a vulnerable spot hard enough though he hit Seifert 50 times on the jaw but the Smoketown boy shook them off. Rocco took the tenth by a nice margin.

Mickey Solomon flashed his way to a six round decision over Eddie Taylor, a veteran from California; Jackie Powers knocked out Harry Lawrence in the first and Jack Drake lost in six sessions to Pickles Donohue. Several thousand fans saw the bouts.

Scouting System Under Ban Causes Wide Open Game

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12. — The results of non-scouting will be seen Saturday afternoon when Pennsylvania entertains Penn State here on Franklin Field. Those two old rivals have a no-scouting agreement this year.

This is Pennsylvania's first attempt at no scouting. The Quaker coaches always have been aided by their scouts who generally watch an important rival for several weeks.

Last year Harvard and Yale did not scout each other and the result was a wide open game.

Both teams tried plenty of surprise plays. The result for the spectators was an exciting football game.

Big-Jawed Athletes — By Feg Murray

This is the anniversary of the landing of Columbus, and, though most contemporary portraits show the gentleman with a beard, I am sure that he had a fighting jaw, because it took plenty of nerve and rugged determination to accomplish what that daring Italian did. Which brings us down to the subject at hand—"Big-Jawed Athletes," and it is no hard task at all to show that men like Dave Shade, Johnny Evers, Eddie Mahan, and Bill Tilden are endowed with all the courage and fighting spirit that are usually associated with an underslung mandible.

Take Dave Shade, for instance. Here is a fighter with a fighter's jaw, if one ever lived. No in-growing chin mars Dave's physiognomy, and his many ring victories will attest that his looks do not belie his fighting spirit and ability. Another ring warrior with "a chin you love to touch" is Joe Dundee, of the same nation that loaned Columbus to Spain for his epoch-making voyage. The Baltimore Italian, as everyone knows, won the world's welterweight title from Pete Latzo, who had won it from Mickey Walker. Shade, in the opinion of many who saw his fight with Walker when Mickey was still champion, should have been awarded the decision. A fight between Shade and Dundee would be a battle of two big-jawed fighting men worth going miles to see.

"Came the Jawn," as they might say in the movies, and ball fans will at once remember "Jawn" Evers, the fighting "Crab" of the old Chicago Cubs. Evers had the pronounced lower jaw of a fighter, and fight he could, as well as play baseball!

Bill Tilden in tennis, and Eddie Mahan of Harvard and Ted Coy of Yale in football are other cases in point. Fighters through and through, all of these boys, and, thanks to their "underslung potatoes," they look the part.

Feg Murray Says—

A few days before the Tunney-Dempsey fight, it was announced that the champion might be assisted in his corner by a member of the British aristocracy. Gene did have royalty in his corner, according to Leo Protest Flynn, only instead of a husky Lord or a Duke, it was a Long Count.

Gene Tunney flew to his fight with Dempsey in Philadelphia last year, but he rode in an armored car to their 1927 battle. He evidently knew his Chicago!

Blue And White Is Being Primed For Big Battles

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 12. — Saturday morning will mark the general exodus of both the Westminster football and cross country squads from New Wilmington when they embark on special busses for Meadville. The Titan football team will meet the Methodist eleven on Montgomery field Saturday afternoon and the Blue and White harriers will run the Allegheny cross country stars just before the grid game.

Before arriving in Meadville the two Westminster teams will stop off at Conneaut Lake for lunch. Despite the mediocre showing of the team in the St. Francis tilt it is expected that the Westminster gridders will be in much better shape and will give the Blue and Gold eleven a hard fight Saturday.

Geneva Playing Boston College In East Today

Beaver Falls Team In Boston Today For Battle With Easterners

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—While Geneva is playing Boston College today in the only football game scheduled for Columbus Day in the East, other elevens will be working just as hard in preparation for hard games on Saturday.

A long scrimmage, probably the last hard one of the week, was scheduled today for the Navy gridders who tackle Notre Dame. The squad is being drilled thoroughly in Notre Dame offensive plays. The left guard post probably will be filled by Jack Eddy, brother of Tom Eddy, star tackle of the 1926 Annapolis eleven.

A last year's reputation isn't worth a thin dime at Harvard, where the varsity is being shaken up like a rheumatic patriarch on his first ride in a second-hand automobile. Parkinson has replaced the vetrean Turner at guard and quarterback Brown (no relation to the famous Brown of Harvard) has been replaced by Burns. There is an open fight for every position. Holy Cross is Harvard's next opponent.

Yale's prospects of victory over Brown brightened when it was announced that quarterback Johnny Hoben may be in shape by Saturday. The Brown coaches are endeavoring to put more charge into the team's "Iron Line" which was rather malleable against Penn.

Ralph Monk, of Portsmouth, O., will replace Johnny Utz, injured Penn guard, aganst Penn State. The State coaches report that their unusually large casualty list will be considerably reduced by Saturday.

The fact that Chattanooga has produced some marvelous swimmers during the past year has received recognition by the selection of the Tennessee city as the place for holding the Southeastern A. A. U. swimming championships in 1928.

County High Schools Plan Basketball League

Schedules for the winter's basketball games was arranged at the meeting of the Lawrence County Athletic association held at the Shenango township Consolidated school yesterday afternoon.

Clare B. Book, president of the association says that a full schedule of basketball games were drawn up for six of the 12 high schools of the county and that more may be arranged later.

The schedule as decided yesterday follows:

January 13—East Brook-Mt. Jackson; Bessemer-Shenango; New Wilmington-Union.

January 20—Union-Shenango; Bessemer-East Brook; New Wilmington-Mt. Jackson.

January 27—Shenango-Mt. Jackson; Bessemer-Union; New Wilmington-East Brook.

February 3—Union-East Brook; Bessemer-Mt. Jackson; New Wilmington-Shenango.

February 17 — Union-Shenango; Bessemer-East Brook; New Wilmington-Mt. Jackson.

February 24—East Brook-Mt. Jackson; Bessemer-Shenango; New Wilmington-Union.

March 2—Shenango-Mt. Jackson; Bessemer-Union; New Wilmington-East Brook.

March 9—Union-Mt. Jackson; East Brook-Shenango; Bessemer-New Wilmington.

March 16—Union-East Brook; Bessemer-Mt. Jackson; New Wilmington-Shenango.

Gehrig Named As Most Valuable In American League

Yankee First Baseman Named By Sport Scribes As Most Valuable Player

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Henry Lou Gehrig, home run hitting first baseman of the world champion New York Yankees, was given the title today of the most valuable player in the American League in 1927 by the trophy committee of the American League meeting here.

"Larruping Lou" won the coveted title by a wide margin, receiving 56 points, twenty-one points more than Harry Heilmann, Detroit outfielder and 1927 battling champion of the American League.

Ted Lyons, star pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, trailed in third place, one point behind the Tiger outfielder.

Lou Gehrig finished the 1927 season with forty-seven home runs, more than any other player with the exception of the home run king, Babe Ruth.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Has any football team in this fair land of ours ever set a record approaching that hung up by the University of Northwestern in scoring touchdowns from kickoffs?

Northwestern students and grads raise the query as they cite the unusual happenings in three consecutive games played by the team.

The discussion is prompted by the feat of Tiny Lewis in running 85 yards from the kickoff for the first score against the University of South Dakota in the first game of the current season.

Northwestern's final games of the 1926 season were with Chicago and Iowa. In each one of those games Northwestern opened the scoring by registering touchdowns on the kickoff.

Three consecutive games then started by the scoring of touchdowns on the opening kickoffs!

It must be pointed out that the one scored against Iowa was called back because of the fact that both teams were offside, but this rule violation alone mars the performance.

And in discussing the scoring achievements of the Evanston team it may well be pointed out that Tiny Lewis' 102-yard run for another touchdown in the contest with South Dakota probably will go on record as the longest run of the year and one of the longest of all time.

Lewis took the ball two yards behind his own goal line and raced through the entire field for the score.

Northwestern's play against the farther westerners gave "Wildcat" adherents much to rave about. Gustafson injected a 65-yard run of his own for a touchdown in between the two mentioned. All three came within the first five minutes of play—bringing back memories of Red Grange's wild day against Michigan.

Close followers of eastern football are remarking that the presence of Bill Bingham, rather than better football material, may be one of the prime factors in replacing Harvard on the football map. Those who have visited the Cambridge campus and environs are outspoken in their praise for the good fellowship and hospitality Bingham is spreading—after the "holier than thou" atmosphere which has prevailed in connection with the various activities for years. Arnold Horween, coach, is a democratic type as well. Both men seem to realize the value of popularity in connection with the promotion of athletics under modern conditions.

The sudden ending of the recent Terris-McGraw bout by a foul delivered by Terris has caused friends of both boxers to urge another meeting of the pair. This despite the fact that neither one of the two bouts to date have been satisfactory affairs.

The most significant sidelight on the two battles staged to date is the fact that Terris, once rated as the fastest, celeverest lightweight in the game, has had trouble keeping away from McGraw—and his mule-kick punches. It begins to look as though Terris is past his day.

GRID CAPTAINS

Haskell Indian school, Kansas, is captained this year by Albert Hawley a Gros Ventre Indian from the Montana reservation.

Hawley, a veteran of three seasons with the Haskell team, holds down the center position.

Last year Haskell went through a 13-game schedule without tasting a defeat. It was about the best team ever developed at the institution.

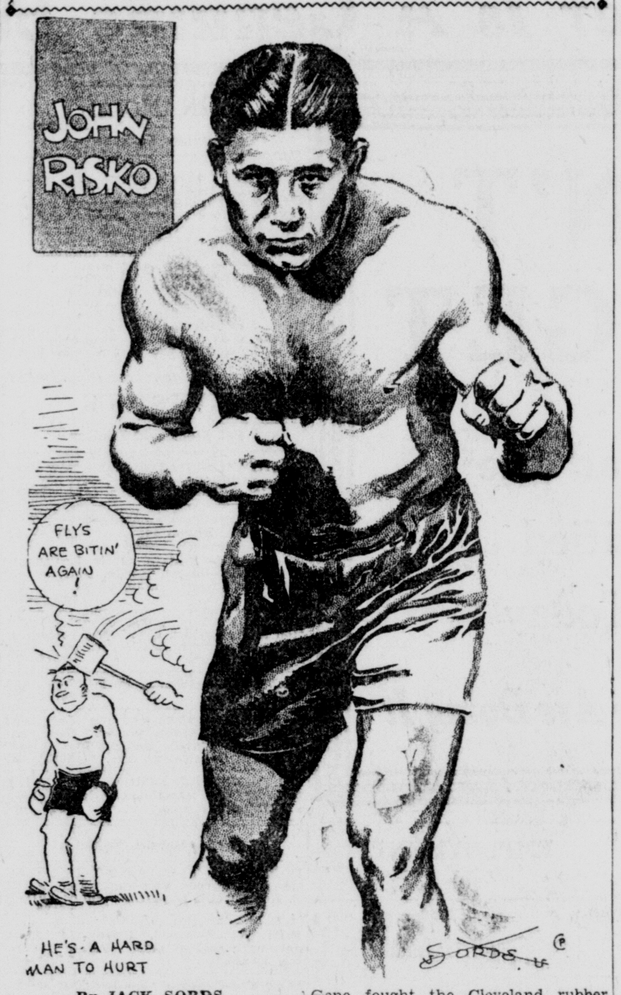
It holds the unique record of having been defeated but once on the home grounds in 27 years.

Evolution isn't finished, and centuries from now electric chairs may be valuable only as period furniture.

Vocabularies are acquired slowly, and you must give an author time to learn that "realism" and "rottenness" aren't synonyms.

SORDS POINTS

Risko Has Eyes On Crown



By JACK SORDS

Among the army of heavyweights who hope to get a crack at the crown won by Gene Tunney, is the much improved John Risko, the human piece of concrete.

As shown in his recent 10-round victory over Jack Delaney, the boy who resigned as light-heavy king to go after the heavier men and heavier purses, Risko has improved his boxing and not at the expense of his punch. Last year Risko finished a miserable second in his first argument with Delaney.

Right now John is considered one of the most dangerous men in the heavy ranks. Only a pile driver can knock him out and though not so fast on his feet, he makes up for it with flying fists. He owns one of the best lefts in the business.

Gene Tunney can prove this claim. Gene fought the Cleveland rubber man 12 rounds late in 1925 and although the champ easily won the decision, it must be said in defense of Risko that he hit Tunney plenty.

Besides Tunney and Delaney, Risko has fought Sharkey, Berlenbach, Bob Fitzsimmons, Mike McTigue, Eddie Huffman, Romero Rojas, Young Stribling, Tommy Loughron and a flock of others not so important.

Jack Dempsey was to fight Risko last July in Detroit, but before negotiations were completed, Dempsey received the offer to meet Jack Sharkey in New York.

Now just how far Risko can go toward a shot at Tunney will be determined on October 26, when he meets Tom Heeney, who recently stopped Jimmy Maloney in 77 seconds.

Bill Kirk Making Good At Amherst

According to a report reaching this city from Amherst College, another New Castle boy, William "Bill" Kirk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kirk, of Moody avenue, is out for the Freshmen team at the eastern school and is making good.

Kirk, the big flaming-thatched youngster used by Coach Bridenbaugh in many of the New Castle high games last year, will undoubtedly make the first year eleven at Amherst, says the report. Kirk earned his letter at New Castle high. He stands about 6 feet 2 inches and supports a total weight of about 180 pounds.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

First Trans-Continental Railway—Part III. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

IN 1862, CONGRESS, TO ENCOURAGE WESTERN MIGRATION, PASSED A "HOMESTEAD ACT" WHICH MADE A GIFT OF 160 ACRES IN THE FAR WEST TO ANY HEAD OF A FAMILY WHO WOULD AGREE TO CULTIVATE IT FOR FIVE YEARS.

RAILROADS WERE NEEDED TO OPEN UP THIS GREAT WESTERN EMPIRE, AND THE SAME YEAR (1862) CONGRESS AUTHORIZED THE CONSTRUCTION OF A TRANS-CONTINENTAL RAILWAY. TWO COMPANIES, THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND THE UNION PACIFIC UNDERTOOK TO BUILD THE LINE.

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC WAS TO LAY ITS TRACKS EASTWARD FROM SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, OVER THE SIERRAS, AND, AT A POINT NEAR SALT LAKE, IN UTAH, CONNECT WITH THE UNION PACIFIC, WHICH WAS TO RUN WESTWARD FROM THE FRONTIER.

OMAHA, NEBRASKA, WHICH WAS CONNECTED WITH CHICAGO BY RAIL, WAS CHOSEN AS THE EASTERN TERMINUS OF THE LINE. TO AID THE BUILDERS, THE GOVERNMENT GAVE THEM VAST TRACTS OF LAND ALONG THE ROAD-BED, AND GUARANTEED BONDS TO BE ISSUED BY THE RAILROADS.

Man Found Guilty Of Slaying Wife

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—A jury in Judge Joseph L. Kun's court found Edward Lucey, New York, guilty of the murder of his wife, Goldie and recommended the death penalty today, after 15 hours deliberation. Mrs. Lucey was slain on May 12 last.
Counsel for Lucey asked for time to file an appeal which the court granted.

FIRST WIFE LOYAL TO REMUS

Mrs. Lillian Krauss, first wife of George Remus, Cincinnati, bootleg king awaiting trial for the murder of his second wife, believes trouble resulted when the second Mrs. Remus refused to continually flatter and play up to her husband. "George thrived on flattery and the adulation of women," she says. She is willing to do anything to save his life and her daughter, Romola Remus, hastened to her father as soon as she learned of the tragedy. Mrs. Krause is at left, above, Remus, top right, and the daughter, below.

"Flapper Flyer" Is Name Given To Ruth Elder

Ruth Solemn-Faced Girl As She Prepares For Hop Across Atlantic

MISS ELDER GETS 11 HOURS SLEEP

By SYD J. HUGHES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The "Flapper Flyer" somebody has called her, Ruth Elder, 23 year old aviatrix, somewhere out over the Atlantic today roaring along in her monoplane "American Girl" for Paris, is a matter for the student of modern feminine psychology.
A flapper with her penciled eyebrows, rouged cheeks and jaunty knickers, but also a sober minded young woman who probably is this minute at the controls of the flaming orange ship drawing on the technical knowledge that won her a pilot's license. And beside her she carries her mother's Bible.
Five hours before her take-off from Roosevelt Field, Ruth was the quick tongued, sprightly young girl whose mother had found her "wilful" and "headstrong". Her title, the flapper flyer, suited her well.
Thirty minutes before she soared into the air with her co-pilot Captain George Haldeman, she was a solemn-faced girl who found it necessary to tax her nerve to the utmost. No more did she laugh. There were no "wisecracks". The hour for levity had passed. It was a serious business now, pitching headlong out into the darkness in a single motored airplane, over an unchartered air course, while beneath her rolled the vast fathoms of blackness that had swallowed up others who had tried and failed.
Nervous Strain.
Although Ruth said she had slept eleven hours the night before her face plainly exhibited the nervous strain that the final moments had accentuated. She smiled once. As a huge spray of roses was laid in her arms, but it was an effort. There was no smile in her thoughts.
She tried to busy herself about the plane, but it seemed that every detail had been looked after.
"Nervous?" she was asked.
"Well, I suppose so. I'm impatient anyway. Gosh, can't we have a little breeze from the west?"
Had they taken off at 1 o'clock as planned, the spectators would have remembered Ruth as the "flapper flyer."
But the three hour delay obviously wore away the mask of gaiety and the crucial moment found her face drawn and white. After all, Ruth was very much of a young girl. And alone. No members of her family were there to see her off. Her mother, in Anniston, Ala., was telegraphed just after the take-off. Her husband Lyle Womack, a Lakeland, Fla., salesman, probably was selling, "as far as she knew."
"My husband knew I was a flying enthusiast when we were married," she said apparently somewhat piqued over his absence. "If he doesn't approve of this, I can't help it."
Capt. Haldeman's wife, Virginia, was at the field. She embraced Ruth and "wished her love".
"Wonder if Mrs. Haldeman won't be jealous"? somebody asked Ruth bluntly. The girl looked about for the questioner. She seemed ready with a sharp rebuke, but with the audience pressing about her, she replied: "I'm sure she can trust her own husband."

The naked truth is less attractive if bowlegged.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

A man can be a traffic officer and a gentleman at the same time, and Officer Tommy Jones is both. Tommy doesn't like to tag cars for traffic violations but he will do it and does do it, but he thinks the motorists can avoid tags if they will only co-operate.

"This matter of double parking" said Tommy "is one thing which can be stopped if the motorists will only think a little bit. It's an awkward thing to begin with and if we tag them for it, it means a three dollar fine. Now it seems to me that they should cut it out for not a traffic officer on duty likes to tag them, but not a one but will not tag them if they insist upon doing it."

Fair enough, which nobody can deny. Double parking is a nuisance for it jams traffic every time it occurs. And who values a few minutes double parking at three dollars?

For the next few days the roaming will consist largely of being in the press box at the Sabbath School convention in the Scottish Rite cathedral. And as an introductory bit of sitting, the colyum conductor sat up with the school board on Tuesday night. Sat up is the word for they were there till 12:30 o'clock transacting your business.

After six years of such sitting up with school boards, the conductor is forced to the conclusion that a person who runs for the school board doesn't care much what happens to him. It's a hard job, a mighty hard job, there's no pay in it and no matter what a school director does, it doesn't please everybody.

Just in case this doesn't get said in any other column of the News, let it be said here that the Registration committee of the Sabbath School convention deserves a heap of credit. They have been on the job getting the early registrations completed, and you might be interested to know what B. A. McGarvey, field worker said, "This committee is hours ahead of any similar committee in previous conventions and they certainly have done their job well." Heaven bless you for them few kind words Mac.

He's back in again customers with a peroration as long as a day in jail. The Cub, that is. After several weeks of unexplainable silence he "busts" forth with an effusion that finishes with a sock full of poetry. Read it and weep, or chuckle whichever way it hits you.

Dear Bart,
You will? Threaten me in the public prints? Belittle my fecundity?
Well, on your head be it! Here it is, and I do not mean perhaps.
You seem to do your roaming in space, while, for the last few nights, we have done ours in time.
The reason is this: the other day a box of books came to us in the mail: college books, books that we had boned over: books that carried with them quite a few stains and grease spots, left perhaps by the midnight oil that was spilled over them.
In one that I happened to glance over, because it was a trifle more thumb worn than the rest, I happened upon something which some of the local dowagers might well peruse, if they are so minded. Of course, it must be twisted, but it worked three thousand years ago, and I cannot see why it would not be good in the year 1927. The passage is to be found in the eighth book of Homer's Odessey. No, it would not be nice if I should quote, but it is there, and customers (as Bart calls the kindly old ladies and gentlemen who are his constituents) it bears reading, and perhaps rereading. The main characters are Aphrodite and Hephaetus, if that gives you a lead.
And, speaking of books, and teachers, and things like that, a college note book is a funny thing when it is reviewed about a year later. On the margins are queer notes like "Will you meet me at eight in front of Old Main?" (Yes, customers, we sat beside a co-ed.) But perhaps the most interesting margin notes came out of a course in which the prof lectured late and long.
In the course of the lectures, he was prone to use the barbarism "With respect to—" which quite insulted our adolescent ears. One day we made a count (the margin of the book testifies to the fact) and in the course of 48 minutes, the old gentleman used the phrase exactly 84 times. There is another notebook somewhere in the United States which bears witness to the same thing.
But, enough. On another page of the same notebook—in all our college days we only owned one, and a thin one at that—there is a little lyric, which might bear repeating, but customers, (ah! there, Bart!) you must remember that it was composed while some old gentleman droned on and on and on, and so, we might say, it was composed under stress. Anyhow, mourn with us:

Poem of Passion
A whisp of hair on my coat lapel?
But my dear, it is my own!
But wives are jealous and it was not well,
That whisp of hair on my coat lapel,
For, to be profane, I'm bald as hell—
And blood comes not from a stone—
A whisp of hair on my coat lapel?
But my dear, it is my own!

Stock Exchange Is Closed Today

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—All financial institutions in New York state, as well as a majority of those throughout the nation were closed today in observance of Columbus Day.

Among those institutions closed in this state were the banks, the New York Stock Exchange, New York Curb Market, New York Cotton Exchange and the Produce Exchange. The Chicago Board of Trade and the New Orleans Cotton Exchange also were closed.

Sport writers assigned to cover the University of Michagan football games in the new stadium will be in luck. An electric heater will be installed in the press stand for each writer.

Thirteen Bidders For School Bonds

Guaranty Company Of New York Is Awarded Issue Of $250,000

Bonds of the New Castle school district are apparently considered good investments by the banking institutions and bond houses of the country, for when the bids were opened by the New Castle school board on Tuesday night for the sale of $250,000 worth of 30-year 4 1-4 per cent bonds, 13 banks and bond houses submitted bids.

The bonds were sold to the Guaranty Company of New York through the Union Trust Company of New Castle, the bid being par, plus a premium of $11,022.50, or a bid of 104.409.

Other bids entered were as follows: Harris Forbes and Co. of New York, $8,297.50 above par; Walter Stokes and Company of Philadelphia, $9,759.12 above par; R. M. Snyder Co. of Philadelphia, $9,000 above par; A. B. Leach and Co., Philadelphia, $6,425 above par; M. M. Freeman Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., $9,350 above par; National City Co. of New York, $9,274.75 above par; W. H. Newbold Sons of Philadelphia, Pa., $8,205 above par; Prescott Lyon and Co., Pittsburgh, $7,005 above par; Union Trust Co. of Pittsburgh, $7,925 above par; Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh, $8,084.75 above par; E. H. Rollins Co. of Philadelphia, $5,282.90 above par; J. H. Holmes Company of Pittsburgh, $8,165 above par.

The bonds carry 4 1-4 per cent interest and are for a term of 30 years.
